

POST-SCRIPTS

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"Variety alone gives joy—The sweetest meats the soonest cloy."

Speaking of the spice of life, three hits by Sialer add a pleasing variety to a rather monotonous story.

Senator Borah indignantly spurns a contribution of oil money—a Democrat with a perverted sense of humor sent in to fund an original John D. dime.

The Supreme Court's decision confining the activities of the Big Five packers exclusively to the packing of meat probably will result in the sequel hereafter being a total loss.

Russia walks into the Geneva conference, and when the rattle of artillery subsides is heard demanding universal disarmament.

From the time Adam blamed it on Eve there has always been a cheer for the man who shields the woman. George McDonald takes his time about it but finally saves the lady in the case at the foot of the scaffold.

We fear the proposed average increase of $291 per annum in the wages of Uncle Sam's underpaid Government clerks comes a little too soon after that last salary boost to $10,000 that Congress voted itself. This thing of talking economy is all right, but somebody has got to practice it.

Col. Lindy receives the Woodrow Wilson medal, thus beginning on his second bushel.

Six day conference will be opened in Baltimore today on "temperance, prohibition and public morals," and one can't fail to regret that the three don't bear any closer relationship than they do at the present time.

South Carolina man "bums" the world's first free airship ride, from Charleston to Norfolk. The days for Weary Willie to count the ties are just about numbered.

But what makes the Senate imagine that there are going to be any expenditures whatever in the 1928 campaign?

Senator Willis is expecting entirely too much of Secretary Hoover—if there were two men in the United States as dry as he is the country would burst into flames from spontaneous combustion.

"Hearts of oak are our ships. Hearts of oak are our men." Secretary Wilbur explains to the Pittsburgh—that you can't train naval men in a prairie schooner.

But at what figure is it proposed to stabilize the dollar—60 cents?

Careful estimates of the growth of Senator Borah's fund indicate that it can be paid to the Sinclair heirs about 1976.

The sea yields up its dead as the last of the officers and crew of the S-4 are borne ashore wrapped in the folds of the flag for which they died, while the President asks an appropriation of $200,000 for experiments with safety devices for submarines. Is there no counterpart of the airman's parachute?

One can't help but wonder what the new American concubine of the former Maharajah of Indore will be doing with herself around the seagull one of these days, when Rajah is off honeymooning in Paris with wife number 4.

Gene Tunney agrees to give up reading Byron for a few minutes along about July.

Speaking of Senator Borah's fund, has Harry Sinclair any grandchildren?

We fear that the Roumanian peasants will continue to get it in the neck until they call themselves the farm bloc.

A mere New York newspaper reporter puts into three short paragraphs a bit of human interest that De Maupassant would have made in to a 100-franc story (high pay in his day, when he wrote The Diamond Necklace for 50). A landlord beats the world's hard-hearted record when he evicts a woman who has just given her life's savings—her grave—to save a baby from Potter's Field.

A street car company's idea of a merger is to make two sardines use the same strap.

The Rajah's wedding present to his American sweetie is the announcement that he has just inherited $300,000,000, or enough to buy half a dozen brides, including the Scandinavian.

The Muscle Shoals asinine gives the House another opportunity to demonstrate its intellectual superiority to the U. S. Coroners Inquest.

Tennessee dispatches leave one in doubt as to whether Cordell Hull is a dark horse or a stalking horse.

2,000 U. S. CLERKS BACK SALARY BILL AT HOUSE HEARING

Woman Heads March to Room of Committee at Capitol.

MEASURE INDORSED BY 18 IN CONGRESS

Professor Cites Statistics to Show Government Employees Are Much Underpaid.

Two thousand men and women, said to be the largest crowd ever to attend a congressional hearing, besieged the House caucus room yesterday when the civil service committee began consideration of the Welch bill. "The bill would give 120,000 employees in the Federal service an average increase in salary of $291 a year and would cost the Government $85,000,000 a year. About 50,000 of the employees are in the District of Columbia.

The hearing will be continued this morning at 10:30 o'clock, and it is expected that more members of Congress will visit the caucus room to endorse the bill. Yesterday one senator and seventeen representatives told the committee that they favored passage of the bill.

Before the hearing started yesterday there was a spectacular parade from Peace Monument to the House Office Building, participated in by more than 500 men and women under the leadership of Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell.

Professor I. W. Wines. The principal witness of the afternoon was Paul H. Douglas, professor of industrial relations of the University of Chicago. Prof. Douglas told the committee that he had made an eight-year study of the relative movement of wages and living costs in the United States and had found that private employers have been far more liberal and considerate than Uncle Sam in the past twenty years.

"During the past 30 years," said Prof. Douglas, "and particularly since 1914, the workers in nearly all lines of American industry have appreciably improved their position. The average annual earnings of all employed workers aside from Government employees, for whom we have statistics, were in 1926 $1,470. This group includes wage earners and clerks in manufacturing and transportation, miners, telegraph and telephone employees, teachers and ministers, and covers in all nearly 13,000,000 workers.

"This average of $1,470 was 212 per cent more than the average earnings of this group during the 1890s, and 116 per cent more than in 1914. The cost of living, on the other hand, in 1926, was only 141 per cent more than during the century.

4 Killed, 45 Injured In Panic at Theater

Solt, Hungary, March 19 (A.P.).—Four persons were killed and 45 injured in a panic which resulted when fire broke out in a moving picture theater here last night.

Solt is a town of 6,500 population about 48 miles south of Budapest.

BALFOUR SUFFERING FROM HEART ATTACK

Former Premier of Britain Is Required to Cancel All Engagements.

London, March 19 (A.P.).—The Daily Express says that Lord Balfour, president of the council, former prime minister and one of the outstanding British statesmen of the present generation, is suffering from heart trouble and has cancelled all his engagements. He has been ill for some time. In January he suffered a severe attack of laryngitis.

Arthur James Balfour, first earl of that title, and Viscount Thrapston, of Whittingham, has been prominent in British governmental affairs for more than 40 years. Starting as private secretary to the Marquis of Salisbury when that peer was foreign minister in 1878, Balfour went ahead steadily and became youngest leader of the house of commons and first lord of the treasury in 1891. He was prime minister 1902-1905. During the World War he was first lord of the admiralty up to 1916, and foreign secretary until 1919. He headed the British mission to America in 1917 and also the British mission to the Washington conference of 1921.

3 Shot in Argentine Pre-Election Battle

Buenos Aires, March 19 (A.P.).—Violence which has cropped up in recent weeks continued to feature preparations for the presidential elections to be held April 1. Shots were exchanged at night among irresponsible elements and three bystanders were wounded.

Former President Irigoyen, one of the candidates, believing that victory is already assured, and in order to prevent further disorders, has ordered his followers to suspend the campaign and to close their political subcommittees.

MACKAY WIRE CONCERNS TAKEN BY INTERNATIONAL

Huge Communication Merger Completed; Involves Lines in Many Lands.

NEW COMPANY FORMED

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 19.—The biggest communication merger on record the absorption of the Mackay companies, operating 5,000 Postal Telegraph offices in the United States, by the International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation was agreed on early today, the New York World announces. The deal brings together companies with combined assets of $228,000,000, and whose wires are sufficient to girdle the circumference of the earth five times about 125,000 miles.

Tonight neither Stothens Behn, president of the International Telephone & Telegraph nor Clarence S. Mackay, veteran head of the Mackay companies, would talk about the deal. Mr. Mackay, who succeeded his father in the cable business, will practically retire from active affairs but will become chairman of the International Communications Co., as the merged corporation is to be known.

This gigantic deal, which vitally affects communications in all continents.

Navy Flier Drowns As Seaplane Sinks

Pensacola, Fla., March 19 (A.P.).—Lieut. John J. Lenhart, naval flying instructor, drowned, and C. A. White, student flier, narrowly escaped the same fate here today when a pontoon on their seaplane cracked, plunging the craft into several feet of water. White was able to extricate himself from his retaining straps after the ship had submerged, but the instructor was found strapped in his seat.

Lieut. Lenhart was a native of Nyack, N. Y., and had been at the station several months. He is survived by his wife, who lives in Pensacola. The accident occurred as Lieut. Lenhart was about to bring his seaplane to the surface and taxi in. The pontoon broke just before the plane struck the water.

Telephoto Disproves New Inquiries Seen In Solomon Islands

London, March 19 (A.P.).—A telephoto picture of a girl held in Strongville, Ohio, today disproved a belief of the police of that town that she was Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College student.

The parents of the missing girl received the picture and said it did not resemble their daughter in any way. The young woman held in Strongville gave her name as Mona Walsh, 20, and said she had come from Newfoundland.

Teacher Found, Shot Dead; Janitor, Seized, Confesses

Suspect in Brooklyn Slaying Beaten Unconscious When He Attempts to Fire on Detectives Who Found Him in Paterson, N. J.

Paterson, N. J., March 19 (A.P.).—Police Captain Joseph Mosley announced late tonight that Martin L. Miller, negro, apprehended here this evening, had confessed to firing the shot that killed Mrs. Helen C. Kimball, Brooklyn school teacher.

The confession, Capt. Mosley said, came after a two-hour grilling, during which Miller told how he had summoned his victim to the door, and told her he had come to fix her gas stove.

Miller, according to Mosley, said the purpose of his visit was robbery, but when he found that Mrs. Kimball had no money on hand, he threatened her life.

S-4 YIELDS BODIES; STRUGGLE FOR LIFE IN HULL DISCLOSED

Remains of Last 8 Men, Including Those of Fitch, Found.

THEY AWAITED DEATH IN SUBMARINE BUNKS

Previous Gallant Fight to Keep Water From the Torpedo Room Is Revealed.

Boston, March 19 (A.P.).—The torpedo room of the submarine S-4 in which six men lived for 72 hours after the vessel was sent to the bottom in collision off Provincetown, December 17, gave up its story today.

Naval officers entered the compartment after the submersible, raised from the ocean bed on Saturday, had been dry-docked at the Boston Navy Yard, and from the dismal evidence found therein, pieced together a tragedy on which the interest of a nation was centered for days last winter.

The six bodies were found and one of them, that of Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch, of Washington, D. C., was identified. In other parts of the ship two other bodies were recovered, completing the roster of death. The entire company of 40 men perished when the coast guard destroyer Paulding rammed and sank the S-4. During the salvage operations 32 bodies were taken from the hull.

Desperate Fight for Life

Evidence of a desperate fight for life was seen in devices by which the imprisoned men had striven to shut out the water leaking into their chamber from the battery room adjoining. The watertight door between the compartments had been closed and dogged tight. A lead maul had been used to batter down the dogs, and a large plumbbar was wedged against the door. A glass deadlight in the door apparently had let water in. To shut this leakage out the men had placed a piece of rubber above the glass and secured it with a wooden block.

The preliminary search of the torpedo room today revealed no written records or diaries. Further search will be made by a naval board of investigation when the interior of the vessel is in better condition.

The bodies of Lieut. Fitch and his five men were all found on deck, which was covered with gray mud and 4 inches of water. Investigating officers said it was apparent that all of the men but one had awaited death quietly in their berths, conserving their energy that they might consume as little as possible of the precious air. The exception was one man found at the foot of the torpedo hatch ladder, gripping the ladder with his right hand. The body of another man lay against this one, with the head resting on his chest.

Lieut. Fitch's body was lying on its back on the deck under the workbench, which is on the starboard side forward, just abaft the torpedo tubes.

HULL'S SUPPORTERS REALLY FOR SMITH IN TENNESSEE RACE

Representative Will Not Hold the Delegation Long, Is Belief.

G. O. P. FOR HOOVER, J. WILL TAYLOR SAYS

Pronouncement Strengthened by Views of Many Leaders at Memphis.

By ALBERT W. FOX. (Staff Correspondent.)

Memphis, Tenn., March 19.—Hoover as the Republican choice and Hull first but Smith eventually as the Democratic selection. This epitomizes the situation in Tennessee so far as this controlling Memphis end of the State is concerned. From all indications Tennessee will vote as a unit in the Kansas City Republican convention with Representative J. Will Taylor of the Second district, national committeeman, controlling the delegation. Taylor has already announced that the delegation will be for Hoover.

There has been some hope in the anti-Hoover camps that Taylor's power to carry out this announcement would be challenged by Lowden and Dawes' sympathizers in the State and that Taylor himself would get into hot water as a consequence. But the Republican organization is standing behind Taylor and the counties are supporting him, though there appears to be some friction not linked with national issues. E. H. Crump, who holds power in the State politics of both parties, is playing ball with Taylor. Crump is a banker here who does not talk much but is known as one of the few men in the State who can usually guarantee results in the carrying out of a political program.

Colored Leader for Hoover.

Robert Church, the negro Republican State leader who controls the negro vote to a great extent in Indiana and Illinois, as well as in Tennessee, is another big factor. The negro vote is important to the Republican party in these States and Church is the man who asks and receives favor when it comes to naming postmasters. It is strengthening the force of Taylor's pronouncement. In short, the Republican situation has taken definite shape, and unless something very unexpected happens, the State convention on May 2 will be a mere formality.

The Democratic situation is not so simple, but here, as in Kentucky and Indiana, the surprising feature is the extent of the Smith sentiment. Cordell Hull, the favorite son candidate, has

Afghan King Descends In British Submarine

Portsmouth, England, March 19 (A.P.).—King Amanullah of Afghanistan, who on a visit to England, went down in a British submarine today.

During the trip he witnessed a sham torpedo attack on a mine sweeper. The submarine took the Afghan monarch for an extensive ride both under and on the surface.

FUNDS FOR DIRIGIBLES URGED BY COOLIDGE

President Recommends That Congress Make Provision for Two Ships.

(Associated Press.) President Coolidge yesterday recommended to Congress that funds be provided for the construction of two dirigibles, authorization for which already has been granted.

Congress last year made $200,000 available to begin work on one of the rigid airships, but the money was not spent because the Navy Department could not obtain bids which came within the statute forbidding government construction on a cost plus basis.

The suggestion of the President was that the Secretary of the Navy be authorized to contract for the construction of two ships to cost not more than $8,000,000. The budget this year recommended an addition of $1,800,000 to the $200,000 already available. The recommendation would enable the Navy to use this money to start on both ships as it has been advised that one ship would cost $5,000,000 but two could be constructed at the same time at a cost of $8,000,000.

Hanging of Woman Ordered in Arizona

Tucson, Ariz., March 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Eva Dugan today was sentenced to be hanged June 1 for the murder of A. J. V. Mathis, a rancher. She was convicted February 25 by a jury which deliberated less than two hours. Superior Judge Jones passed the death sentence, the first to be pronounced on a woman in Arizona, after denying a motion for a new trial. Mrs. Dugan was brought from the State prison at Florence to hear sentence pronounced. She is serving a term of from three to six years for grand larceny growing out of theft of Mathis' automobile.

Sinclair Aided Al Smith, Charged in Senate Debate

Governor Not to Be Summoned by Committee—Borah Asserts Oil Lease Conspiracy Was Hatched in 1920 G. O. P. Convention.

Recent disclosures in the Teapot Dome scandal touched off a furious political exchange in the Senate yesterday with demands for the resignation of high administration officials and the calling of Gov. Smith of New York as a witness before the oil investigating committee.

Robinson, an Indiana Republican, brought Smith's name into the debate. He sought to develop that Harry F. Sinclair was a heavy contributor to Smith's gubernatorial campaign in 1920, and subsequently was appointed to the New York State Racing Commission, but it was said later that the New York governor would not be called.

Scoring Sinclair's $160,000 contribution to meet the Republican 1920 campaign deficit, Senator Reed (Democrat) Missouri, declared the only way for the Republicans to rectify the situation would be to call for the resignation of responsible party leaders. He demanded specifically the retirement from the Cabinet of Secretary Mellon, and condemned severely the silence of President Coolidge.

During a three-hour flare-up, in which more than a dozen senators had their say, the names of some Republican presidential candidates were mentioned, and two avowed candidates for the Democratic nomination—Reed and Walsh, of Montana—openly participated. No voice was raised in defense of the administration for the Republican party's acceptance of the Sinclair contribution.

Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, stirred up the row, by reviewing the activities of Will H. Hays in managing and financing the Harding campaign of 1920. His criticism of Chairman Nye, of the oil committee, for his speech in Baltimore yesterday brought a counter-attack from the young North Dakotan and before the final word was said La Follette and Blaine, of Wisconsin; Borah, of Idaho; Glass, of Virginia; Johnson, of California; Bruce, of Maryland—they and others got into the fray. Much of the debate hinged on Borah's attempt to refute Sinclair's campaign contribution and resulted in the charge from the veteran Idaho senator, defending his course, that the oil lease conspiracy really was hatched at the Republican national convention in 1920 by a group of men "unbeknownst to the party" and later was consummated in part at the famous "little green house on K street," a rendezvous for some of those identified with the Harding administration.

Borah declared there was nothing in the history of this or any other country to compare in rottenness to the oil leasing scandal.

Robinson, of Indiana, brought Gov. Smith's name into the picture by attacking the administration.

U. S. GIRL TO ESCAPE EXECUTION IN CANADA

Doris McDonald's Life Spared It Is Learned; Husband's Fate in Doubt.

TAXI DRIVER WAS SLAIN

Special to The Washington Post.

Montreal, Quebec, March 19.—Doris McDonald has been saved from Canada's crimson-hued scaffold.

Formal announcement of the government's decision to grant the young American girl the boon of the king's mercy will not be made until Wednesday or Thursday, but the powers who hold her fate in their hands have decided that she shall not die.

Through authoritative channels, the news came down from the house of parliament building in Ottawa and penetrated today even into the nun-guarded death cell of Doris in the Fullum Street Jail.

The fate of George McDonald, the former lover of the girl, who yesterday broke his long silence and absolved his slim former mistress of all blame, is still in doubt. Probably, next Friday at dawn, he will mount the eighteen steps leading to the death platform of the Dominion's century-old gibbet and give his life for the crime of which he and Doris were found guilty—the murder of a Lachine taxi driver, Adelard Bouchard, last July.

He has two chances for life and both are intertwined with the slim possibility of the fate of the titian-haired former Mount Vernon, N. Y., girl.

After the commutation of Doris' sentence to life imprisonment is announced, a plea will be made for a new trial for the girl—a trial at which McDonald's appearance as a witness would be necessary.

His second chance comes from the desire of his enemies, the police. They wish to keep him alive while there is a chance of capturing the third member of the murder band, Ralph McMullen. There is fear that the poor health of Doris may lead to her early natural death. With Doris and McDonald eliminated, there would be no one who could identify McMullen, and Canadian detectives are still confident of his early capture—probably in New York City.

While the government jealously guarded from public disclosure its proposed

AMES' HONEYMOON ENDS IN AIR CRASH

Bride of Bay State Heir, Once Cabaret Entertainer, Is Under Treatment.

Easton, Mass., March 19 (A.P.).—The airplane honeymoon of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames, Jr., ended on the Ames estate here today when the plane in which they had flown from Arizona crashed in making a landing. Mrs. Ames was under a physician's care tonight, but it was announced that her injuries were not serious. Her husband was unhurt.

Ames, son of Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames, of Boston and Newport, R. I., and a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family, was returning home with his bride, the former Miss Maurice Mozette. They were married two months ago at Tucson, Ariz., while Ames was making a tour of the country by airplane. Their marriage took place soon after they met at Nogales, Mexico, where Miss Mozette was a cabaret entertainer.

LINDBERGH GETS $25,000 WILSON PRIZE AT DINNER

Makes International Harmony 'a Personal Thing,' Says John W. Davis.

FERRARA LAUDS COLONEL

New York, March 19 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh tonight received the Woodrow Wilson award, consisting of a medal and $25,000 for "his services for the cause of international friendship" during his good-will flight to Central and South America.

The presentation was made at a dinner of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation Col. Lindbergh was the third recipient of the award, which was given in 1924 to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood for his services to the League of Nations and in 1926 to Elfric Root for his part in the inception of the permanent court of international justice, or "World Court."

John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, in an address explained that Lindbergh was selected a recipient of the award, not as a victorious soldier, nor as a successful diplomat or statesman, nor as a noted poet or orator, but as "a mere individual" who had "the great fortune to serve peace in most effective ways."

The preservation of lasting international peace is as much a personal as a national responsibility, Davis said.

Suggesting that the preservation of peace had been regarded as too entirely the function of governments and officials, he said that Lindbergh has made international friendship a personal thing, and proved by his flights to Paris and Latin America that "America was not a far-off country."

WILKINS IS ON FIRST LEG OF ARCTIC HOP

Takes Off at Fairbanks for Point Barrow; Will Seek "Blind Spot."

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 19 (A.P.).—The first hop of their projected flight to the other side of the world over the Arctic "blind spot," Capt. George H. Wilkins and Lieut. C. Ben Nielson, his sardough pilot, took off from Point Barrow from Fairbanks airport today.

The single-motored plane picked up its heavy load of gasoline without difficulty and after circling the field for about five minutes headed North in the direction of Barrow.

Point Barrow, about 500 miles to the northwest over the rugged Brooks range of mountains, is the Arctic base of the expedition, where a supply of fuel has been laid down. After a few exploratory flights from Point Barrow, the aviators planned to fly to Spitzbergen, a distance of about 2,100 miles over portions of the polar sea never before witnessed by the eye of man.

Judge Called Insane For Past Two Years

Chicago, Ill., March 19 (A.P.).—During the last two years former Judge John Stelk was in the Chicago criminal court bench he was "insane and incapable of choosing between right and wrong," Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Courts, testified today. The testimony was given at the trial of the former judge, who is charged with defrauding clients and counterfeiting public seals.

The former judge is pleading insanity as a defense for alleged fraudulent real estate operations, which are said to have netted him $500,000 in the last few years. He was a judge from 1914 to 1920.

INQUIRY IS ORDERED IN HARDING ESTATE BY OIL COMMITTEE

Nye, However, Believes No Continental Bonds Will Be Traced.

MARION STAR OWNERS INVITE INVESTIGATION

Justice Martin Holds "Siddon Package" Was Parcel of Yule Cards for Him.

(Associated Press.)

Before closing its inquiry into the disposition of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading Co., the Senate Teapot Dome committee is to investigate the records of the Estate of the late President Harding. In making this announcement yesterday, Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, chairman of the committee, said he did not believe that any of the Continental bonds would be found in the estate, but added: "There would be a lack of satisfaction if this committee submits a report to the Senate without it determines whether there were any Continental bonds involved in the estate of President Harding."

"If they are there we are going to tell the world. If they are not there we are going to tell the world. I don't think they are there."

Inquiry Next Month. Senator Nye said the present plan was to send an investigator to Marion to check up on the securities which may now be or may have been in the Harding estate. He added that this probably would not be done until early next month, indicating that the investigation is to be continued at least for several weeks more.

President Harding signed the executive order under which Albert B. Fall, as Interior Secretary, took charge of the naval oil reserves which he leased to Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair early in 1922. After the Government recovered the reserves through court action this order was rescinded by President Coolidge.

During the early days of the Senate oil investigation, the committee inquired into the sale of the Marion (Ohio) Star by the late President after there had been sensational reports that some of the profits in the oil deals had been represented in the price paid for the paper. This was vigorously denied by the purchasers and there was no evidence to support the charges.

Call Sinclair's Former Secretary.

The summoning of a new witness for the resumption of the public hearings of the committee Wednesday also was announced yesterday by Chairman Nye. He is Merritt Baldwin, of Meriden, Conn., who, the investigators are informed, was private secretary to Sinclair from 1922 to 1924.

Besides Baldwin, the committee at that time will hear Wilbur W. Marsh, of Waterloo, Iowa, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, who has denied evidence adduced last week at Chicago that he suggested to the late Fred W. Upham, then treasurer of the Republican National Committee, that neither party make a report on campaign contributions for 192

(Associated Press.)

The string of newspapers owned by Ira C. Copley, former member of Congress from Illinois, in Illinois and California, came up for discussion again yesterday in the Senate as Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, renewed his plea for a Federal Trade Commission inquiry of their financing in connection with the investigation of public utility power companies.

The Nebraska called attention that Copley had said in an advertisement published in one of his papers that a $3,200,000 bond issue for the purchase of two San Diego papers had been subscribed to by banks and investment houses, and he called for an inquiry of this along with the suggestion by Copley that he might soon seek $4,300,000 for purchase of additional papers. He recalled that the papers were to be used as a "defense" of public utility companies, which are under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission.

John Callan O'Loughlin, vice president of the Copley Press, Inc., in the absence of Mr. Copley from the country, issued a statement describing the declarations of Senator Norris as "bunk" and late in the day Senator Norris had read in the Senate a letter from Mr. O'Loughlin.

Norris Makes Explanation.

Previously, Mr. Norris denied that he or Willis Spaulding, of Springfield, Ill., whose letter about the Copley papers he had read last week, had said that negotiations are now under way for purchase of the Los Angeles papers. He said Mr. Spaulding had said negotiations had been under way, and he read a telegram from the owners of the Express stating that Copley had sought once to buy stock in the paper, but that he had not purchased any.

Divorced From Utilities.

"So far as the letter is concerned, it was written by a man whose hatred of the Illinois State Journal dates back to its opposition to his election to a municipal office in Springfield. This opposition was manifested prior to Mr. Copley's purchase of the paper. The letter makes false and libelous statements throughout, as the slightest investigation would have established.

With regard to the San Diego papers acquired by Mr. Copley, their purchase by him divorced them from the influence of the Illinois State Journal. The Independent, which he also acquired and suppressed, was purchased by him upon the suggestion of its owners, because they felt that with Mr. Copley in southern California, the public interests would be fully and amply safeguarded. With regard to the bond issue, Mr. Copley observed the policy which other newspaper proprietors have pursued in connection with newspaper purchases. The bonds were sold in the usual manner through bankers and investment houses to investors and in addition to the large assets and profits of the properties themselves. Mr. Copley placed behind them his own name and his own credit. No one else had anything whatsoever to do with this financing.

"An inquiry at the First National Bank, of Chicago, would quickly and easily have verified this fact."

Papers Sole Interest.

"It may add that Mr. Copley has no connection of any kind with the management, direction, or control of any interest or industry, save that of his newspapers."

"The newspapers comprising Copley press are inspired by but one policy, the public interest, and one purpose, the promotion of the public interest. As Mr. Copley has stated, neither he nor they have any other grudge."

"It is, therefore, of serious moment that loose and false statements, inspired by selfish motives, as contained in the spaulding letter and the newspaper to which you referred, should seem the basis for an insinuation, which even a cursory investigation would have shown to be utterly without foundation and with the facts before you I believe you will make the reparation to which we are entitled."

PROHIBITION LEADERS*GEORGIA DELEGATES

W. C. T. U. Executives Are on the List Chosen by U. S. Senator George.

Special to The Washington Post.
Atlanta, Ga., March 19.—Backers of Gov. At Smith, who seek to find favor with the Georgia delegation at the Houston convention, will discover that the Southerners are strongly entrenched on the prohibition issue.

Two of the eight delegates from the State-at-large are women who have been in the forefront on every prohibition movement for the past decade. Mrs. Marvin Williams, wife of a prominent Atlanta Methodist minister, is now president of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union, and Mrs. Mary Harris Armour is a past president of the organization and a prohibition lecturer throughout the Nation.

Other delegates from the State-at-large include United States Senator W. J. Harris, who will act as chairman; Ed Maddox, chairman of the State Democratic executive committee; former Gov. Clifford Walker, Thomas J. Hamilton, newspaper editor; Andrew C. Erwin, attorney and State legislator, and William J. Veren, South Georgia banker.

The Georgia delegation will include 28 delegates and 28 alternates, each with one-half a vote. The personnel was named by Senator Walter George, "a favorite son," in accordance with a request of the State executive committee, and it goes instructed for the Georgia.

Council Bribes Related At Trial in Indianapolis

One Member Admits Accepting Money and Is State Witness Against Six Others; Interesting Side-Lights on City Business Are Given.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19 (A.P.).—Interesting side-lights on the conduct of the city council were revealed in testimony today by Roy Moore, J. Moore, councilman charged with bribery.

O. Ray Albertson, a city councilman and one of the State's principal witnesses against Moore and five other councilmen who will be tried later, admitted while on the stand that he bought a lot indirectly from the board of park commissioners and later introduced an ordinance to rezone the corner from a residential to a business district.

Stories of alleged bribes received by councilman for swinging fire equipment contracts and for refusing to impeach former Mayor John L. Duvall were related by witnesses today.

Under cross-examination Moore related that he had been promised immunity from prosecution in return for the testimony he gave before the grand jury.

Albertson said he arranged for gaining possession of the lot by having a friend buy it from the board. After consummation of the deal Albertson said he introduced the rezoning measure.

Albertson testified that Moore gave him $500 as a part of a bribe to swing council for $500 a week of fire equipment to an unnamed company. He said he and four other councilmen, including Moore, received $1,000 for the deal.

Albertson admitted receiving other bribes for various favors, the amounts ranging from $95 to $300. Other witnesses today included former Mayor Duvall, Arthur McGee, a police lieutenant, formerly assigned as the mayor's aid; John J. Collins, former city purchasing agent and Thomas Moynahan, real estate dealer and contractor.

Moore is charged with receiving $100 from Collins to vote in favor of not impeaching Duvall after Duvall was convicted of violating the corrupt practices act.

HARDING ESTATE INQUIRY ORDERED BY OIL COMMITTEE

It is quite likely, because my son-in-law is an employee of the Sinclair Refining Co. and probably he had the package sent out from his office."

Chief Justice Martin said he never had received any Liberty bonds from Mr. Harding or any one connected with the Sinclair Refining Co. He added that because of the development of his son-in-law by the Sinclair company he has steadily declined to take part in any case affecting Sinclair.

Ready to Give Details.

Louis H. Brush, who, with Roy Moore, bought the Marion Star from President Harding, last night issued a statement declaring that he and his associates were entirely willing to give the committee "any and all details" of the transaction.

"Chairman Nye is absolutely right," he said, "I emphatically urge the friends of the late President Harding to get actively behind an investigation of anything and everything pertaining to Mr. Harding's affairs in connection with this situation. Those of us who felt the 'aspiration of an intimate friendship' with the late President, and who are in the present position of an inextricable tangle of offering a word in his defense. Those who knew Mr. Harding best felt it would be a sacrifice to attempt to defend him. But the fact is, distressing or not, that the trend of the whole oil proposition, Harding's interest in the very edge of Harding's integrity with nothing ever tangibly implicating him."

"Whether the investigation pertains to the sale of Harding's newspaper, the Marion Star, or any other part of Harding's public or private life, I wish that I might convince members of the Senate committee and the public at large of my entire confidence in the late President and the willingness of my associates and myself to give any and all details of the sale of the Marion Star."

Here on Different Errand.

"William H. Voder and Roy Moore, my associates in the entire ownership of the Illinois State Journal, have returned to their office in Springfield, Ohio, are with me in Washington on an entirely different matter, but we should regard it as a particular privilege to tell the committee again, as we did in 1924, any and all facts concerning the newspaper transaction."

"This is the same newspaper that was sold to Mr. Harding and us by Frank A. Vanderlip four years ago, has amply and sputtered with nothing definite to support the charges. We have a trail of doubt and suspicion, with never a word to clear up the shadow that is left by such a smoldering fire of defective searchings."

"Let us, for the sake of square shooting and in fairness to the memory of President Harding, bring this thing to a close in the open and go straight through it."

No Work for the Cleaner, Hodges Replies to Capper

Denver, Col., March 19 (A.P.).—Replying to Senator Capper's blanket attack on the Teapot Dome scandal, William H. Hodges, Denver, treasurer of the United States, said:

HULL FORCES IN TENNESSEE ARE HELD REALLY FOR SMITH

an apparently limitless number of real friends and admirers, but his candidacy for President is not being taken seriously. He will get complimentary votes at Houston and may get an instructed delegation to be held until he releases it. But it will be a Hull-Smith delegation, excepting, perhaps, in spots. No other candidate is figuring at all with the Democratic party, and the situation is so far as it can be learned here. There are those who hope to see Hull on the ticket with Smith and say this might be necessary to hold Tennessee in line in November.

Crump Favorable to Smith.

Crump, who exerts influence in Democratic, as well as in Republican, circles, is said to be friendly to Smith. E. W. Hall, chairman of the county committee here, is for Smith. Watkins Overton, recently elected mayor of Memphis, is a Smith man and has written to the governor inviting him to stop off here on his way to Houston. Overton's victory in the election last November was overwhelming. He had a majority of 12,000 out of 26,000 votes cast.

Frank J. Rice, who never misses a national convention and went as delegate last time, is another Smith man. Of course, all these names mentioned are technically Hull men, but they are Smith men under the skin, in the sense that they want to see Smith nominated and believe he will be nominated and will win.

They will be interested in the instructions which are given to the delegation at the State convention because of the spreading Smith sentiment. In 1924, the delegation was instructed to vote for McAdoo until released and McAdoo never released it. There appears to be no objection to being instructed for Hull until released, because the Democrats say that Hull will use his discretion and balanced judicial mind and not permit the delegation to become pocketed again.

Mekellar—Garrett Battle.

Senator Mekellar's fight against Paul J. Garrett for the Senate is expected to provide fireworks and a battle between Crump and Luke Lea, for control of the State organization. The latter, who lives in Nashville, has bought a string of newspapers, includ-

WILLIS ATTACKS HOOVER DRY LAW STAND IN OHIO

Infers He Is Not for as Strict Enforcement as Is Senator.

QUOTES TUMULTY BOOK

Fremont, Ohio, March 19 (A.P.).—Secretary Herbert Hoover's attitude on the prohibition amendment and its enforcement was brought into the Ohio presidential campaign by Senator Frank B. Willis in a campaign address here tonight, the Senator inferring that Hoover does not favor as strict enforcement as does Willis himself.

The Secretary's reply to Senator Borah's questionnaire to presidential candidates, Senator Willis indicated, is unsatisfactory to those favoring strict enforcement.

"His reply in which he answers rather mystically and evasively two out of the five questions which the Senator proposed, was intended to leave the impression that he favored the eighteenth amendment and its proper enforcement against 'constructive' lines, whatever that may mean. If he is now in favor of prohibition, he evidently has changed his viewpoint since war time," Senator Willis said.

Joseph Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, was quoted by Senator Willis as proof that Secretary Hoover was against war-time prohibition. In his book on President Wilson, Tumulty was quoted as saying the President was supported in his opposition to war-time prohibition by Hoover, then food administrator.

Secretary Hoover's attitude on the Chicago-Great Lakes water diversion project was criticized by the Senator, who charged Hoover's public utterances have placed him in favor of Chicago continuing its diversion of water from the lake to the river.

Flood control for the Mississippi valley, Senator Willis said, he considered a national question and favors the proposed plan by the Army engineers. He opposed further study of the question, declaring he is in favor of the Government at once putting steam shovels and dredges to work on the project.

Rail Labor Groups Open 2-Day Session

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of nineteen railroad labor organizations began here today a two-day session for discussion of political and related issues before their union. D. B. Roberts, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, presided as chairman of the Association of Railroad Labor Organizations, and E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, acted as secretary.

No statement as to results of the first day discussion was authorized, delegates to the session said, but before the close of the gathering tomorrow one was expected. The meeting yesterday was asserted to be preliminary in character and devoted to details of the interests which the delegates represent.

Action on Gordon's Nomination Deferred

The Deneen subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary committee failed to make a report yesterday to the full Judiciary committee on the nomination of United States Attorney Peyton Gordon to be an associate justice of the District Supreme Court.

Senator Deneen (Republican), of Illinois, chairman of the subcommittee, asked more time to consider the nomination. It was understood that Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas, a member of the subcommittee, has not yet contacted the full committee. The action and the other member of the subcommittee, Caraway was not present. Senator Deneen and his staff held a hearing on the nomination.

Attorney Suspended On Contempt Charge

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday held Abraham S. Gilbert, who was special counsel in eight gas rate cases in New York City, to be in contempt and suspended his privileges as a member of the bar for six months.

After being required by the court to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for retaining fees he had been instructed to return Gilbert through counsel reported that he had recently complied with the court's orders.

The court declared this not sufficient and his suspension was ordered as warning that the court would enforce its orders.

Hoover Is Indorsed By Stanford Alumni

San Francisco, March 19 (A.P.).—As the first step in mobilizing graduates of Stanford University for Herbert Hoover, the Stanford Alumni Association has indorsed his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination. The association's headquarters are here. The indorsement was said to be the first ever given to a candidate by the association.

The Stanford Alumni body has 25,000 members whose addresses are known; of these 12,750 reside in California.

2 Lowden Delegates Elected in Missouri

Houston, Mo., March 19 (A.P.).—Two delegates elected here today to the Republican national convention were instructed to vote for Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, as presidential nominee, at the Sixteenth congressional convention.

HOOVER'S ELECTION PREDICTED BY WORK

(Associated Press.)

Nomination on First Ballot at Kansas City Seen for Secretary.

Secretary Work predicted yesterday that Herbert Hoover will be the next President of the United States. Dr. Work, who is a close friend and political adviser of the Commerce Secretary, declared that if Mr. Hoover is nominated as the Republican candidate on the first ballot and would receive more votes than any man either party could put into the field for the presidential election.

Hoover is "pretty well established all over the country," Dr. Work said. He expressed the belief that none of the Republican candidates already announced could muster enough strength to oppose the Commerce Secretary's suggestion. Asked what he was going to do to manage Mr. Hoover's campaign, Mr. Work replied, "No." In answer to another question, he said that he did not know who would manage Mr. Hoover's campaign adding that the campaign was moving rapidly enough of its own momentum.

MARCH CIRCUIT COURT IS OPENED AT ROCKVILLE

C. L. Watkins Named Grand Jury Foreman; Judge Peters Makes Change.

PAVING HEARING TONIGHT

The March term of the Montgomery County Circuit Court began yesterday at Rockville with Judge Robert B. Peters, presiding. Judge Peters announced that Charles Lee Watkins would act as foreman of the grand jury. In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Peters invited attention to the fact that Montgomery County, generally, has been orderly; that no grave crime has been committed recently, and that peace officers have enforced the law in obedience to their duties. He asked the grand jury to carefully inspect the courthouse with a view to recommending certain repairs, alterations and improvements which the last general assembly of Maryland provided for doing when it enacted a law permitting the issuance of bonds for the work.

Public hearings will be held tonight in the auditorium of the suburban county building at Silver Spring to enable property owners on Georgia avenue to express themselves relative to the proposed front footage assessment along that thoroughfare for repaving a distance of 4,400 feet at an approximate cost of $130,000, all of which is to be borne by them. The street improvements contemplate the removal of electric light poles from the middle of the avenue, paving the present parking space between the right and left wheels already paved, and widening certain sections of the avenue.

It was said yesterday that the hearings may be the means of bringing to a head claims made by some of the Georgia avenue property owners that they should not be required to pay the entire cost of the street improvements for the reason that the property owners along the new Sixteenth street extension to Coleville pike will not be required to pay the cost of that work. The cost of the latter project is expected to be approximately $130,000, also, and will be paid from county funds. County Commissioner Lacey Chaw will preside at the hearings.

Howard Arnold, 35 years old, of Washington, who was taken into custody early last Monday by County Officer Joseph Oldfield when the latter observed him loitering in a dark alley in Chevy Chase, Md., was sentenced yesterday by Judge Peters, in the Rockville police court, to twelve months in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

When Oldfield approached Arnold, the latter is said to have drawn a revolver on Oldfield, who wrested it from him. Upon searching his pockets, the officer found another revolver, 27 cartridges, a glass cutter, a can opener and a knife sharper in his pockets. Arnold said he had been in Washington only eighteen months, coming from Richmond, Va., where he has a wife and seven children. He said he was a barber by trade, and admitted he was drunk the morning he was arrested.

Mrs. Charles G. Hyslop, 75 years old, of Avenal, Md., where she lived for ten years, died yesterday of paralysis at this home of her son, James A. Hyslop, in Avenal. She is survived by her husband, another son, Charles J. Hyslop, of Philadelphia, and a daughter, Miss Katherine A. Hyslop. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday

QUARTET SUCCESSFUL WITH BRAHMS MUSIC

Miss de Sayn, Miss Day, Boyce and Paquay Score at Festival Concert.

The second concert of the Schubert Centennial Festival, dedicated to Brahms, yesterday at the Draper Building had as musicians Miss Elena de Sayn, violinist; Margaret Day, cellist; Malton Boyce, pianist and Armand Paquay, French horn.

The program opened with the Brahms trio for violin, horn and piano. The Brahms Double Concerto, played by Miss de Sayn and Miss Day, was another evidence of the excellence of women musicians in this city. The Brahms masterpiece was given full justice and played with virility and abandon to an audience which filled the hall to its capacity. Malton Boyce, pianist, as a soloist and ensemble player, was heard in Brahms Rhapsodie in D Minor, Valse A Flat and Valse B Flat. His playing was characterized by a colorful touch and musically grasp, his technique was facile and brilliant.

Next Monday's concert will introduce the Fritz Kreisler's String Quartet, which is a supplement to his narrative "Four Weeks in the Trenches." Ella May Powell will read excerpts from the book which pertain to the composition. Miss de Sayn will play a few of his popular selections in addition.

Cherry Blossoms Unhurt by Freeze

Sunday and yesterday's snow and colder weather did not damage the Japanese cherry tree blossoms. Charles Henlock, chief horticultural division, Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, announced yesterday, following an inspection.

He said the buds were not far enough advanced to be damaged by the fall in temperature, and that the single blossoms should appear between April 1 and 8.

from the Church of the Nativity, Brightwood. Interment will be in St. John's Cemetery.

The Rockville Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight. Dr. George L. Edmonds, president, will preside.

Step into the Automobile

In Port Today

This day of March, 1928, Reo announces the 1929 Flying Clouds.

Reo can give you 1929 automobiles in the heart of the 1928 season for a very, very simple reason.

Reo is an independent organization and a producer of only a moderate number of cars. Refinements, changes, new ideas can be put into and through production faster than in the huge immobile plants from which come most of America's automobiles.

Reo blue prints can materialize into Reo cars many, many months sooner than do those of other reputable automobiles.

As a result, the New Reo Flying Clouds give you today what other cars may try to give you one year from today—in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today a new fleetness, for one mile or one hundred, that will still be the envy of many cars—in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the ability to sweep from zero miles per hour to what you will, faster than many cars will do—even in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the agility in traffic, and steering ease that other cars will try to develop—for 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today distinctive new lines, sweepingly simple lines, that some other manufacturer may imitate—by 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today luxurious interiors that someone else may copy—for 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the riding ease that many cars will strive to have—for 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the four-wheel internal expanding (not external contracting) hydraulic brakes that safety demands may force many other cars to adopt—in 1929.

These things can be yours in March, 1928, in the New Flying Clouds, for the very simple reason that Reo blue prints become Reo automobiles many months sooner than do those of other reputable cars.

Step into the 1929 automobile—the New Flying Cloud—and try it out yourself.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, mixed with olive oil.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force work to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sluggishness—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c—Adv.

ARLINGTON COUNTY SCHOOLS REVENUE INCREASE IS URGED

Move to Raise Taxes 25 Cents on the $100 Referred to Committee.

REID TO DISCUSS BILLS AT DUTCH LUNCH TODAY

Fairfax Supervisors to Hold Meeting on Courthouse Construction Tomorrow.

ARLINGTON COUNTY, BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 509.

Declaring that when the schools of a community are costing more than the current revenue it shows a healthy condition, Col. J. G. Pepper, delegate to the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations, at a meeting last night moved that the recommendation that the taxes be increased 25 cents on the $100 be approved. The motion failed and was amended to read that the question be referred to the school committee for further investigation. A report will be made before April 1.

C. I. Cason declared that the superintendent of schools, with the county school board, should come out and inform the public of the school needs and take the responsibility of the proposed increase in taxes, and not the chamber of commerce.

Asa E. Phillips, engineer in charge of the installation of the Arlington County water system, when advised that reports were current that a special charge was being made for the meter in addition to the flat charge of $40 for the tap connection to the property line, declared last night that any such reports are without foundation and that there is only one charge.

The many advantages to be derived by the passage of the many bills by the Virginia Legislature affecting Arlington County will be discussed by Delegate Hugh Reid, who will speak at the Dutch treat luncheon of the chamber of commerce today at Clarendon.

While the citizens have a brief outline of the bills passed, the chamber of commerce is anxious to have the advantages of some of them explained, especially the new sanitary act, declared Milford Witts, secretary, last night.

The board of supervisors of Fairfax County will hold a meeting tomorrow morning at the courthouse to further consider plans for the construction of the new courthouse. The plans for the building are now in the hands of the county clerk and will be submitted at the meeting tomorrow.

Waiving a hearing before Judge Harry B. Thomas in the Police Court yesterday, John W. Davis and Edward D. Hill, who were both charged with transporting liquor, were each held for the action of the grand jury at the April term of Circuit Court. Both were released on $500 bond each.

Robert Cameron, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was held for the action of the grand jury and released on $500 bond.

The Arlington Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will give a benefit card party tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the Chestnut Farms Dairy, Washington. Mrs. Frederick O. Appleton is general chairman in charge of the arrangements.

The adoption of a new constitution and by-laws will be the principal business to come before the monthly meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association, which will be held tonight in the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The Town Council of Potomac last night unanimously went on record as opposing any movement for the construction of a road passing through the campus of the George Mason High School grounds.

The action was the result of attempts being made to have a road constructed from Mount Ida connecting with Mount Vernon avenue. It was stated by members of council that a road constructed as proposed would destroy the athletic field of the school.

U. S. GIRL IS SAVED FROM PRISON DEATH

gram in deciding on Doris' clemency appeal, it is known that the recommendation of the jury for clemency weighed more with the authorities than did the sworn death cell statement of McDonald.

In the government's exhaustive study, which took up every detail of the crime and personalities of the American couple, great influence was exerted by letters written by those who had been closest to the girl during her religious conversion in the Fulham street jail.

On file in the ministry of justice were notes from the mother superior of the prison, the old French chaplain and the prison doctor, and one from a French-Canadian priest, a relative of the slain man, to whom the girl had poured out a detailed review of the events on the night of the murder.

The press of Montreal, while refraining from editorial comment on the McDonald case, reflected today the popular sentiment against clemency, which was the greatest obstacle for clemency workers to overcome. Although the now repudiated "Denver confession" of the girl was conspicuously printed here after being barred at the trial, very little attention was paid to the death cell announcement of McDonald.

Ignored by Some Papers.

Some papers entirely ignored it, others devoted two or three paragraphs to the story under inconspicuous headings on inside pages. A story, later vigorously denied, appeared in the Montreal Star this afternoon, stating that Wolfgang Cribari, attorney for the Mount Vernon clemency committee, and Sheriff Omer La Pierre, of Montreal, had engaged in a "wordy fight" over the issuance of passes to visit the condemned.

A Pierre, after reading the account in which it was stated that the leading attorneys of Montreal agreed with the sheriff in barring American attorneys "who have no standing in our courts," declared:

"It is a flat lie and a libelous one, and I've told the Star to remove it from its next edition and print a correction."

Cribari declared that the sheriff had treated him with the greatest courtesy and graciously instructed him in what must be done to meet the new requirements of the Quebec ministry in regard to visitors.

2,000 BESIEGE PAY INCREASE HEARING AFTER BRIEF PARADE

decade of the 90s, and was 74 per cent higher than in 1914. This meant that workers — than Government employees could purchase with their average yearly earnings 29 per cent more in 1926 than they could have purchased during the 90s, and 25 per cent more than they could have purchased in 1914.

Standard Week Is Less. "This improvement in their material conditions has also been accomplished by a decrease in the length of the normal working week. During the 1890s the standard work week ranged between 56 and 60 hours; today it is somewhere between 47 and 48 hours.

"The most probable decrease in the length of the week has been approximately 17 per cent. In other words, workers as a whole are receiving 29 per cent more per year, although they are working 17 per cent fewer hours. This is an increased payment per standard hour of approximately 55 per cent.

"The economic condition of Federal employees during this period has, on the other hand, actually deteriorated. In 1893 Federal employees in the District of Columbia received on the average of $1,096 a year. In the fiscal year 1923-24 their average earnings were $1,899, which was 65 per cent more than the 1893 average. If we take the years from 1892 to 1899 as a base, the earnings in 1926 were 68 per cent higher. They were also 69 per cent above the most probable average of $1,140 for 1914. These increases, however, were not sufficient to compensate for the increase in the cost of living which occurred.

Salary Value Decreased. "Dividing the increase in money earnings by the increase in the cost of living we find that the average annual salary of governmental employees in Washington could only purchase in 1926, 70 per cent of what it could have purchased during the years from 1892 to 1899. In other words, the real earnings of governmental employees decreased by 30 per cent during this period.

"In 1926 earnings were also able to purchase only 91 per cent of what they could have secured in 1914, or a loss of 9 per cent. During this period also it should be remembered that there has been virtually no decrease in the average length of the working week for Federal employees.

"While other employees, therefore, have been improving their economic position over that of the 90s by 29 per cent, Federal employees in Washington have lost 30 per cent, and while other employees have gained 25 per cent since 1914, Federal employees in Washington have lost 9 per cent.

Prof. Douglas was introduced to the committee by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of General Employees. He explained at the outset, however, that he had no connection with the federation and had not been retained by it.

Paid Better Elsewhere.

J. P. Thompson, fifth vice president of the National Federation of General Employees, told the committee that workers outside the Government service were being paid far better wages than those paid for employees for the same kind of work, and he produced figures to bear out his assertion. Pas-

Concerted Action Is Urged In U. S. Salary Measure

Concerted action among Government employees in Washington to obtain higher wages was a probability visualized last night by Judson C. Welliver, who last night addressed a meeting of the Monday Evening Club in the Central Young Women's Christian Association Building. Mr. Welliver deplored the present scale of living which low salaries force upon workers in the various Government departments, and urged that congressional relief be extended to underpaid employees as soon as possible.

Miss Louise McGuire presided at the session, which was opened by Willard C. Smith, vice president. A nominating committee composed of five officers was selected to name candidates for the coming annual election of the organization. The election will be held in May, it was announced.

SENATE VOTES JURY CHARGES BE WRITTEN

Caraway Bill Prevents Judges From Passing on Weight of Testimony.

Federal judges would be required to submit their charges to juries in writing before closing argument of counsel under a bill passed yesterday by the Senate and sent to the House. The measure, sponsored by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, also would prohibit judges, in their charges, from expressing opinions as to the credibility of witnesses or the weight of the testimony.

Meanwhile the Johnson bill seeking to speed up court actions was reported favorably by the Senate Judiciary committee. Under this measure district courts of the United States and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia would be required to decide every matter submitted in a case as soon as possible after such a submission, and in all cases in not to exceed five months.

Rockville Marriage License. A marriage license was issued at Rockville yesterday to Alfred A. Foster, 21 years old, of Hampton, Va., and Evelyn May Holloway, 16 years old, of Phoebus, Va., whose mother accompanied her to the license office and gave her written consent to the marriage.

Gov. McLean Goes to Key West. Raleigh, N. C., March 19 (A.P.)—Gov. A. W. McLean of North Carolina left last night for Key West, Fla., on a fishing trip. It was announced at the executive offices today. He was accompanied by Mrs. McLean.

sage of the Welch bill, he said, would enable the Government to attract and retain a higher and better grade of employees.

The caucus room, the largest in the entire House Office Building, was so crowded before the hearing started that members of the civil service committee could not get in. Not until Chairman Lehigh told Steward that the hearing would be called off unless a passageway was made for the committee members did the crowd make way. As the members went to their seats there was much cheering and handclapping.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst (Democrat), of Arizona, was the first to be heard by the committee. The United States, he said, was the most opulent nation in the world, and ought to be well able to pay its employees a decent wage.

Tells What Senators Did.

Somebody, the senator said, had raised the question of the propriety of so many employees staying away from work to attend the hearing. "Why, bless your hearts, gentlemen," he exclaimed, "that night that the Senate raised the question of the propriety of so many employees staying away from work to attend the hearing, the first time in years that every senator had been present."

Representative Florence Kahn (Republican), of California, told the committee that her heart went out to the women in the Government service who were trying to be decent and honest on the low wages paid by Uncle Sam. Representative R. Walton Moore (Democrat), of Virginia, said he could not understand how any member of Congress could hesitate to vote for the Welch bill.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton

(Democrat), of Texas, was given a loud cheer when he appeared in the interests of the "under dog" in the Government service. He said that there was too great a difference between salaries paid the bureau chiefs and the salaries paid the rank and file of employees.

Other representatives who appeared to endorse the bill or sent word that they favored it were the following: Howard (Democrat), of Nebraska; W. T. Fitzgerald (Republican), of Ohio; Summers (Republican), of Washington; Busby (Democrat), of Mississippi; Letts (Republican), of Iowa; MacGregor (Republican), of New York; Hudspeth (Democrat), of Texas; Updike (Republican), of Indiana; Connerly (Democrat), of Massachusetts; (Gallivan (Democrat), of Massachusetts; McLeod (Republican), of Michigan; Peery (Democrat), of Virginia; McMillan (Democrat), of South Carolina, and Collier (Democrat), of Mississippi.

Representative Richard J. Welch

(Republican), of California, the author of the bill, explained the meaning to the committee, saying that it would simply provide a "living wage" to many of Uncle Sam's employees. The bill, he said, was actually in the interest of economy in government.

Fewer Employees, Higher Wages. Representative MacGregor said he was in favor of fewer employees and higher wages. The "drones" in the service should be weeded out, he said, and their wages given to the really ambitious employees.

Representative Updike, after praising the Welch bill, declared that there should be an investigation of the system of efficiency ratings in the Government service.

He said he could cite 25 cases where employees who "stood in" with the division chiefs were given high ratings and employees who did not stand in were given poor ratings.

FRIAR OBSERVES GOLDEN JUBILEE AT MONASTERY

Rev. Godfrey Schilling Eulogized by Prelates for Service in Order.

ROME DELEGATE PRESENT

Brilliant pageantry featured the religious services conducted yesterday at the Franciscan Monastery in Brookland, when the Rev. Godfrey Schilling, venerable friar of the order, celebrated his golden jubilee in the presence of visiting prelates and laity, with a procession, solemn high mass and benediction. A colorful assemblage of high dignitaries of the Catholic Church officiated at the ceremonies.

Father Godfrey's long and faithful service in the Franciscan order was recalled in an eulogistic sermon preached by the Very Rev. Chrysostom Theobald, of Cincinnati, a former classmate of the jubilarian. Enumerating the various achievements of Father Godfrey, the speaker reminded his audience that it was due to the energy of the Franciscan friar that "The Cathedral of the Desert," a church erected in Egypt in honor of St. Joseph, was constructed. Today, this edifice is recognized as the finest specimen of ecclesiastical architecture in that country.

The Very Rev. Edward Blecke, delegate general from Rome, was the celebrant of the solemn high mass following the procession of clergy and laity through the monastery grounds. Father Blecke was assisted by the Rev. Mathias Faust, O. F. M., ex-provincial of New York; deacon: the Rev. Solanus Schafer, O. F. M., of Cincinnati, sub-deacon, and the Rev. Paschal Kinsel, O. F. M., of the monastery, master of ceremonies. Assisting Father Godfrey were the Very Rev. Benvenute Ryan, provincial from New York; the Very Rev. Valerian, provincial of the Immaculate Conception province; the Very Rev. Hugh Strand, of the Cincinnati province; the Very Rev. Peter A. Crumley, delegate provincial from Chicago; and the Very Rev. Matthieu, ex-commissary of Canada. John Hallahan and John A. Shiel, Knights of Mount Saint Sepulchre, with Father Blecke, formed the guard of honor escorting the jubilarian.

LINDBERGH RECEIVES $25,000 PEACE AWARD

but a near neighbor of Europe; that courage and high adventure were still dear to the American heart; that great risks would be taken and great deeds done without thought of personal reward or financial gain, and without boasting over the results.

Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador, said that only Col. Lindbergh "could have made the peoples of the various countries that he visited so fully conscious of the fact that nothing divides the Americas, neither traditions, nor ideals, nor interests nor aspirations."

"By exposing his life under our skies, almost always placid, but at times, like our souls, agitated and stormy," Ambassador Ferrara said, "Col. Lindbergh proved to the ready intuition of the masses of the people that the United States have not shut themselves up within the formidable tower of their greatness."

Messages from Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Dwight Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, and Manuel O. Teitelbaum, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, were read.

Norman H. Davis, president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, presented the medal, which is of bronze, 12 inches in diameter, and is inscribed "To Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his services in the cause of international friendship, from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation."

Col. Lindbergh included in his speech of acceptance a plea for public support of aviation and said the airplane would be the means of the development of future good will among the nations. "I feel particularly honored," he said, "to receive this award from a foundation organized in memory of a man who had done so much for mutual understanding throughout the world as Woodrow Wilson, a man who was always at the head of progress and peace, and yet who was able successfully to lead his Nation through the greatest war in history when peace became no longer possible."

The colonel gave an outline of his good will flight and declared he "always had believed that aviation would play a large part in world understanding." He said that on the flight he "found people very similar to our own, with ambitions and ideals not unlike ours."

Lindbergh Makes Plea For Military Airmen

(Associated Press.)

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was invited yesterday by the House Military Affairs committee to appear before it at his convenience to testify regarding aviation matters, particularly conditions affecting the flying personnel.

The invitation was extended after Representative Reppow (Republican, Minnesota, read a letter from the flyer in which he said he was "earnestly in favor of any legislation that will give the officers of the Army Air Corps rank and pay that are just compensation for the service rendered and the risk connected with the service."

"It is clear that this condition does not now exist," the letter added. "Military aeronautics call for risks that need not exist in properly organized and usual commercial aviation. Military missions require skill and entail danger that call for pilots of unusual qualities."

"Adequate reward for such services is necessary to attract and hold the type of officer needed. Especially is this true in the present stage of rapid growth of the aeronautic industry, which doubtless will offer attractive connections to experienced pilots and administrators." Furlow said the bill would create an air corps promotion list and that he hoped Lindbergh would be able to appear before the committee upon his next visit to the Capitol, probably later this week.

Writ Asked Against Commissioner. The Andrews Steel Co., of Newport, Ky., filed a petition yesterday in Circuit Court for a writ of mandamus against David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to compel him to pay interest amounting to about $25,000 on a tax refund made to the plaintiff under the 1921 revenue laws. Attorneys Sterling, Tedrow & McCaslin appeared for the plaintiff.

Morton Snyder to Speak. The Morton Snyder, field secretary of the Progressive Education Association, will give an address on "Which Way Is Education Going?" at a meeting to be given under the joint auspices of the homesteaders and the child study sections of the Home Economics Association tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Friends meeting house, 1311 I street northwest. An open discussion of the topic will follow the address.

STATE OFFICER GIVEN 60 DAYS' SUSPENSION

Action Follows Complaint by Washington Woman and Her Son.

Baltimore, March 19.—Albert M. Spioch, of the Maryland State police, was suspended today on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer. The suspension is for 60 days from February 25 and is without pay.

Charges of bribery and collecting money from complaining witnesses on the road were dismissed by Oliver C. Short, State employment commissioner.

Spioch was before the employment commissioner on complaint of Mrs. Margaret May Fiedt and her son, L. J. Fiedt, both of Washington, who complained against the manner in which Spioch arrested the son near Annapolis on February 12.

The Fiedts said Spioch arrested young Fiedt on speeding charges and later offered to release him for $645. Sentencing the officer, Mr. Short declared he had been unable to substantiate the bribery charge, but was of the opinion that the officer was guilty of unbecoming conduct.

He also said Spioch had exceeded his authority and had failed to treat Mrs. Fiedt with due courtesy and respect.

American Oil Company
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gentlemen:—

About thirty days ago we made our first purchase of AMOCO-GAS for use in the new Ford, and we thought you might be interested to know that we are more than pleased with the results obtained for power, speed and pickup. We have tested the car with AMOCO-GAS under every conceivable condition, and have been unable to note the slightest compression knock.

On a test we were able to obtain a speed of more than seventy (70) miles per hour, with three passengers, in a Tudor sedan, and so far have made every hill in Pittsburgh, that we have tried, on high gear.

We believe that every owner of the new Ford will be amazed at the wonderful feeling of power after he has first tramped on the gas, and will realize that the new Ford with AMOCO-GAS need give way to no car made.

We shortly expect to make some special tests on Pittsburgh hills with your gas, and will be glad to notify you of the results.

Yours very truly,
C. E. MOODEY MOTOR COMPANY
C. E. Moodey
President.

SIXTY-FIVE miles per hour is all the Ford Motor Co. claims for the new Model A—but read what this Pittsburgh agent reports! 70 miles per hour in a new Tudor Sedan with three passengers when AMOCO-GAS was used! Climbed every hill they tackled in high! Not the slightest trace of a compression knock with AMOCO-GAS!

That's performance—the same sort of performance you're assured from the minute you fill the tank of your car—no matter what its make or year—with AMOCO-GAS, the Original Special Motor Fuel!

COAL USERS JOIN FIGHT
ON HIGHER LAKE RATESOperators Insist Courts May Halt Enforcement of I. C. C.
Ruling on Roads.

NEW PETITIONS ARE FILED

Charleston, W. Va., March 19 (A.P.)—The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the lake cargo rate case was assailed and defended in Federal District Court here today.

Arguments were presented before Circuit Court Judges John J. Parker and Elliot Northeast and District Judge George W. MacIntyre, of Southern West Virginia, supporting and opposing a petition by Southern coal operators who seek an injunction to restrain the commission from preventing Southern railroads from making a reduction in freight rates to the Northwest effective.

Lines were drawn anew for a continuance of the economic dispute termed by one of counsel as "strife between States for commercial supremacy," as interested organizations from the territories involved filed petitions to intervene on one side or the other of the court action to test the power of the commission.

Counsel for the coal producers of Southern West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, and those of various intervening organizations completed arguments supporting the plea for a restraining order and the first argument upholding the authority of the commission and opposition to the injunction was made by P. J. Farrell, counsel for the commission. Blackburn Esterline, assistant to the Solicitor General of the United States, remained to be heard on behalf of the commission when court adjourned tonight.

At the outset of the hearing, the Government and the various Southern railroads filed answers to the operators' bill. Submitting an answer on behalf of the Government, Esterline sought dismissal of the action on the ground that the coal producers can not assert the rights of the railroads since it was the railroads that the order affected and the carriers had refused either to join the operators in the action or to file a separate suit. His question as to the jurisdiction of the court on that ground was met by E. L. Grever, of counsel for the operators, with the statement that the Government of the United States had "sent its lawyer down here to come into court and tell you that the operators have no right to ask you for an injunction to save their life's blood."

The railroads, the Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Louisville & Nashville and Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, in their answers to the operators' suit stated their willingness to place the reduced rates into effect if the court approved. Intervening petitions joining the operators were filed by consumers of the Northwest territory and the State of West Virginia, and intervening petitions as defendants were presented on behalf of the operators of the Cambridge, Ohio, field, the Pittsburgh district and the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania, the York Central and Big Four railroads.

When Dr. O. Goldsmith polished off his manuscript, "The Stoops to Conquer," some 150 years ago, he had placed therein the necessary ingredients for sustained comedy. The play caught on its first night in Drury Lane. Now, with some addition in the way of added business, the old vehicle is rolled out again on the stage, this time under the proscenium arch of the National Theater. An all-star cast, assembled by the master of all-star casts—Mr. George C. Tyler—stands sponsor for the present revival makes much merit out of the old classic.

There are names here to conjure with—as goodly a list of thespians as might be found in a day's search of theater programs; but the play still remains the piece de resistance. The revival has a fair chance for success for comedy, and when he set devils in the heart of the bumpkin, Tony Lumpkin, and made that mischievous youth mindfully two youthful swains in search of their lady loves; sending them to the Hardcastle house instead of an inn, there was the devil sowing the seeds of mischief. In 1728, as well as in the early seventeenth century, remains a cause for honest laughter.

Master Glenn Hunter, not yet over his triumphs in John Van Druten's play, "The Great O'Connell," and with still a bit of "Merton of the Movies" clinging to his coat-tail—he will probably never get over some of those mannerisms now loathsome to the audience—has a part in Tony Lumpkin, hailed as the first young actor who essayed the role in latter-day theatricals. Probably youth is not the only qualification for a fling at this characterization, which demands at one and the same time a nimbleness of foot and a thickness of wit in the portrayal. A cut from the same cake that gave the world of comedy a Bob Acres, there is a master comedian or so, perhaps now out of work, who might easily fill the bill. Which is not to say, implied or otherwise, that Master Hunter does not measure to the cut of the cloth. He has his moments, especially one with Mrs. Leslie Carter, who plays Lumpkin's mother, Mrs. Hardcastle—and it is a rare bit of theater and of comic proportions.

In that Jacky-Hyde role, Young Marlow, who is exceedingly bashful before ladies and a veritable cut-up with women not so classed, Wilfred Segram comes off as well as any in the highly touted company. He is splendid. Playing opposite him, as the girl who steps out of her character, stooping to conquer the night, is Fay Bainter—a charming Kate Hardcastle. Patricia Collinge, the little Irish actress, has the role of Kate's confidant and companion—Constance Neville. The father of the household, old Squire Hardcastle, is handsomely done by Lyn Harding. Ead, more than that—immensely projected.

It remains for P. F. Heggie, always the master technician, to add a high light or so to the picture, and he cast in a simple role; that of Drigvy, one of the servants, right out of the barnyard. Staged by William Seymour, "The Stoops to Conquer" is a charming flash-back to old theater; a cameo of rare beauty, a colorful rendition of a quaint comedy. It is something more—a full presentation and preservation, a noble effort to keep the theater library in circulation. "Though some one, probably Mr. Seymour, took liberties with the text of Oliver Goldsmith, Esq., the additions are certainly improvements, coming under the head 'what vaudeville-villains call added attractions.'"

Pauline Lord, pretty as a picture in her knee breeches and laces, speaks the prologue written by David Garrick, an afterthought, when that worthy had been won around to the belief that here, at last, was a veritable comedy. A long life, and a merry one, has proved the old London manager right.

Tournament.

POST FURNISHING KITS

Build your own model airplane, glider or kite.

Assembled planes or gliders are not eligible for entry in the District of Columbia Miniature Aircraft Tournament being conducted under the auspices of the Community Center Department of the public schools; the National Model Aircraft Tournament to be held at Detroit in June under the auspices of the Airplane Model League of America for the American Boy Magazine and affiliated newspapers; nor for the National Miniature Aircraft Tournament to be held at Atlantic City by the Community Centers in October.

Planes to be entered in any of these contests must be built from raw materials by the boys who enter them, and any attempt to use ready built or assembled planes or gliders will automatically disqualify the entrant.

Much interest in being manifested in the first open air meet of the miniature Aircraft Tournament, which will be held Saturday at the Monument Grounds at 2 o'clock. Officials of the Capitol Model Aero Club state that they are disposing of kits as fast as they can assemble them.

Room 49, Washington Post Building is also a busy spot. Members of the Airplane Model League of America are visiting the building in a steady stream obtaining their kits for building the models which will compete in the local tournament for the prize trips to Detroit, which are given by The Washington Post. Use of these kits is not obligatory. The only stipulation is that the model plane conforms to certain dimensions specified in the contest rules. Only A. M. L. A. members can compete for the Detroit trips. Membership in the league is free. Read the coupon:

STUDENT "BUMS" RIDE ON LEVINE'S PLANE

Stultz, Piloting the Columbia, Lands at Norfolk With Youth.

Norfolk, Va., March 19 (A.P.)—Bringing as a passenger K. H. Smith, a student at the Medical College of South Carolina, Charleston, who probably holds the distinction of being the first man to "bum" a ride in a transatlantic plane, the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, with Pilot Wilmer Stultz at the controls, arrived here this afternoon from Charleston en route to New York. The plane, which recently made a non-stop flight from New York to Havana with its owner, Charles A. Levine, and Miss Mabel Boll aboard, left Charleston this morning and arrived here about 1 o'clock. Levine and Miss Boll left the plane at Charleston Saturday to return to New York by rail.

Smith, whose home is in Spartanburg, S. C., had never taken an airplane ride. "I didn't have much idea this morning that I'd be in Norfolk tonight," Smith, in baggy trousers, gay colored sweater and bareheaded, said. "I was at the flying field watching them warm up the Columbia and got to talking to Mr. Stultz. I said something about wishing to take a trip in that plane, and Mr. Stultz asked how I would like to fly to New York. I jumped at the chance."

The Columbia, which landed at the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station, where Stultz was formerly stationed, will leave for New York tomorrow morning.

SACRAMENTAL WINE RULE "LIBERALIZED"

New Regulation Places Responsibility for "Leaks" Upon Rabbi.

Special to The Washington Post.
Baltimore, Md., March 19—New regulations for the distribution of sacramental wine by rabbis have been placed into effect, it was announced by John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for Maryland and the District of Columbia. With regard to permits to withdraw wine from Government-controlled storage warehouses, the regulations have been liberalized. Mr. Herbert said, but in distribution the regulations tend to place greater responsibility for "leaks" upon the rabbis. The latter, he explained, makes it incumbent upon a rabbi permitted to sell and distribute sacramental wines, to store the wines either in the synagogue or his home. No one except the rabbi or one delegated by him allowed to dispense wines, he added.

Mr. Herbert announced the resignation of Lindsay S. Scott and George F. Breen dry agents. Scott recently married a Washington woman and wanted to live there, and Breen is ill, he said.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

TODAY'S problem illustrates an interesting No Trump situation that frequently arises and is all too frequently overlooked. Readers are urged to examine the diagram that follows and plan, just as they should do if they had the hand at the table, how they would develop it so as to produce the most satisfactory result. Then read the explanation that follows.

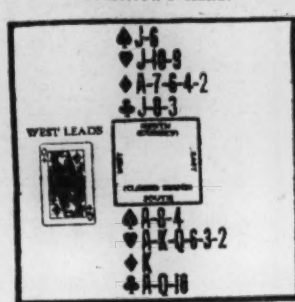

Declarer's Plan of Campaign.

Declarer will see that he is sure of his book—three Spades, three Hearts, one Diamond and one Club. The three additional tricks needed for game can be obtained easily if Dummy's Diamonds can be run; but to run them it is essential that after Closed Hand parts with the Ace of Diamonds, Dummy should have an entry to establish his Diamonds and another entry to cash them. Fortunately Dummy has them both—the Ace of Clubs and the Queen of Hearts. To make Dummy's Queen of Hearts an entry Declarer wins Dummy's Jack of Hearts (the first trick).

With either the Ace or the King, leads the Ace of Diamonds to trick 2, which leads a small Heart to trick 3, which Dummy wins.

At trick 4, Dummy starts leading Diamonds and continues until an adversary plays the King and the suit is established; after which Dummy starts with the Ace of Clubs to get in and run the Diamonds. The whole point of the problem is getting Closed Hand's Ace of Diamonds out of the way while Dummy still has two entries, and this is accomplished by overtaking the first Heart trick (which does not affect the number of Hearts won by Declarer) and gives Dummy an extra entry. It is obvious that the lead of the Ace of Diamonds should be Closed Hand's contribution to trick 2.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Heart contract; South Declarer; question: How should the Declarer plan to play the hand? Answer: Tomorrow.

PREVENTION AND CURE OF CHILBLAINS.

V. D. and G. R. want an article on chilblains.

Chilblain is a condition in which some part of the body, usually the foot, has been sensitized to cold. There is history of exposure and sometimes of a frozen toe, or something of that kind. Following this experience, for years afterward the individual suffers an attack of chilblains whenever the feet are unduly chilled. Sudden changes of temperature precipitate an attack. For example, a man having been out in the winter comes into his house and tosses his feet before an open fire, or places them close to a hot radiator. The feet begin to tingle with pain, or itching becomes very unpleasant; or the skin may turn white or black or blisters may form.

Treatment is of two kinds—the treatment of an attack and the prevention of attacks. If there are blisters they should not be opened if it can be avoided. If they are opened, a sterilized needle should be used, and the puncture should be made well to the side of the raised skin. After the removal of the blister, the skin should be left on as long as it will stay. Dry dressing should be used. If there are no blisters the only thing to do is to decrease the discomfort. For this, some use an ointment containing carbolic acid. This is very effective, but it is a little dangerous. It should not be used on the face, raw, and it can be used too freely on some skins. Menthol ointments are less effective, but they are safer. Many people use kerosene and have faith in it.

The other kind of treatment is that directed at the prevention of attacks. If a person is susceptible to chilblains he should avoid exposure to open fires and hot radiators. Tossing the feet is risky. It is even more harmful to expose the feet to cold.

Woolen socks should be worn. At times, wearing two pairs of socks is advisable. They should fit loosely. They should be held up with safety pins or with garters that do not encircle the leg. The shoes or boots must be large, loose and waterproof. The ankles and legs below the knees must be kept warm and dry. Daily footbaths are used "to harden the feet against cold." These consist in plunging the legs into warm and cold (not hot and cold) water alternately. As the toughening proceeds the warm water should be used increasingly warm and the cool water increasingly cold.

DIPHTHERIA TOXIN ANTITOXIN.
L. C. B. writes: Please say something concerning toxin antitoxin for diphtheria. They have just completed the Schick test in the schools here and I find my child is not immune to this disease. She is nearly 9 years old.

There are so many reports for and against this practice that I would like to have your opinion on the subject.

Very extensive use of immunization, especially in the United States and Canada, has proved that this is the best single method for controlling diphtheria. In Auburn, N. Y., New Haven, Conn., Hamilton, Ontario, and in several other places the use of this method has reduced diphtheria almost to the vanishing point.

The little danger in the method has been pretty well eliminated by improvements in the process.

In Canada they use a product called toxoid. Much of the toxin antitoxin used now in the States is made from sheep serum or some other serum than that of the horse.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: I am a very lonesome girl of 16. I have kept house for my mother and father since I was 11 years old—that was when my mother passed on—besides going to high school and taking music lessons.

About a year ago I was introduced to a boy about my age by his mother. We went to the same school and usually on the same car, but he is very bashful and hardly ever says more than "Hello." I know he doesn't go out with any girls and I haven't any boy friends either. In all the air circles that I have built I have pictured him as master. I'm only lonesome for a little bit of love from him, but I don't know how to get it.

Well, dear, you are starting on a long, long journey. Every girl and every boy of 16 is facing that long, long hike. Is everything in readiness? Or will the journey be one long series of disappointments simply because no preparation was made. That is what happens when a girl decides she is in love at 16. She grabs a hat and starts on the trip. Next day it rains and she has no umbrella. A 16-year-old girl had her marriage annulled here yesterday. I think she started her journey that way, don't you? So stop being in love and prepare for love!

The Best Mother of All.
MOTHER complains that she spent $27.50 for a long-legged, eccentric-looking French doll for her small girl and that the money was wasted because the child still sticks to "golden curls, dimples and eyes that shut."

Think heaven the little one has sense. She sees so few curls in real life that it's a real joy to comb the doll's hair. They are at the "real mother" stage where the doll must resemble a real baby and they know the difference between a lanky, leering, lop-sided, lobster-faced imported "doll" and the good old-fashioned honest-to-goodness specimen of Doll City.

I have been told that the little ones will stand for short dresses but object so much to the ugly knee joints showing. This is contrary to school practice, where the high school homemaker courses occur when a girl ought to like the work but doesn't. She likes the credits and may like the scientific aspects.

The real time to interest girls in the practical side of making beds, cooking, helping mother, cleaning, "little mending" of babies, is before the age of 12. A girl of high school age can be made, under pressure, to cook, take care of her room and repair her clothes. Her interests are not in housework. She is, however, deeply interested in decorating her own room, the front parlor and her own person. She will, under wise direction, become interested in budgeting, labor-saving devices, camp cooking and getting the most out of a dollar.

Watch the little girl with her doll and doll house; the mince pie with stones for raisins, sand for the crust and dirt for the filling; note the way she puts the rug, hangs the curtains and arranges the furniture; listen as she orders around the inhabitants of Doll City. Never again will she show such interest until the great event.

Most girls of high school age do things around the house because they must or because by doing something they don't want to do they get something they want. The terminal of a little girl's effort is her doll and its home. The terminal for the big girl is herself. A little one will work alone for hours. A girl of 12 to 15 will work for minutes if she has companions and can call the adventure a club. A girl of 17 will organize a committee, develop a constitution, make by-laws and turn over the job to her mother.

And yet I do not complain.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Even in their off-screen business ventures film folk seem influenced by their love of dramatic contrast.

Imagine the average banker or professional man, for instance, establishing kennels for the breeding of dogs descended from the hunting hounds of the ancient Egyptian Pharaohs. That is Pola Negri's latest enterprise. She has imported what are said to be the first Saluki hounds ever seen on the Pacific Coast. These strange barbed dogs, resembling a cross between a greyhound and a collie, are said to be plentiful in Persia, but still are very scarce in this country.

On the other hand, Edwin Curren, the producer-director, has found romance—and probably the w. k. six percent—in the extremely modern problem of garbage disposal. He has acquired something of a monopoly which makes machines that transform garbage into dog biscuit and hog cake. One of them is in operation at a hotel largely patronized by a dozen thicknesses of the human body are no more transparent to other eyes than to mine and that if I can't see the screen, scores of others must feel themselves to be similarly defrauded.

The time necessary for a brief intermission to permit the crowd to exit with the house lights up could easily be deducted from the newswall and overtime without impairment to either.

As you may have suspected, I do enjoy that Sunday dinner and help in trying to eat it for breakfast!

And how have you been?

M'Leod to Address Commerce Chamber

Representative M'Leod, of Michigan, a member of the House District Committee, will be the principal speaker tonight at the monthly meeting of the Washington Chamber of Commerce at the Willard Hotel.

Thomas P. Littlepage will report on progress made in the movement for national representation for the District. Other business to come before the meeting includes a report by Isaac Gans, chairman of the committee on retail trade, regarding the proposed new members of Congress to delay making of Center Market. A report on the fourth annual industrial exposition of the chamber, which closed Saturday at the Auditorium, will be made by Martin A. Capes Are Smart

When Mr. Borjes was just little Harry, aged eight, his father, an eminent clarinetist and drummer, decided Harry was to have violin lessons. So Harry was sent to Henry Froehlich to be developed into a great virtuoso.

With the passing of years we find him successfully advertising the "Prince George Hotel" as the conservatory of music in Cincinnati. A free scholarship, awarded in recognition of unusual ability, secured him three years of study at the Granger School, now out of existence.

When he was 17 he passed the examination necessary for membership in the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. He became a member of that body under Van der Stucken. He remained there three years and then journeyed to New York, where he played with the Knickerbocker, Sherry's, the Prince George Hotel and as a member of the Russian Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Modest Alchevsky for a year.

Now if you wish any further information regarding Harry Borjes, to play under such eminent guest conductors as Hildley, Rothwell, Gabilowitch, now at Detroit; Tsaye, Victor Herbert and many others of note.

Mr. Borjes left Cincinnati to join the colors and was just about to get into the thick of things when the armistice was signed. So he came to Loew's Columbia in this city as concert master instead. When the Palace was completed, he was transferred to that house in the same capacity. Last September, in recognition of faithful and capable service, he was elevated to the leadership of the house orchestra.

IN THE FACTORY.

"What did you see in the factory?" The superintendent questioned me. And this I said to him in reply: "Men who are braver by far than I."

"We have many machines of which we boast. Now what was the thing that impressed you most?"

And I thought once more and I answered then: "The sight of so many courageous men."

"Courage?" said he, "I don't understand. We are not at peace on the sea and land. These men aren't facing an unmarked grave. I see no reason to call them brave."

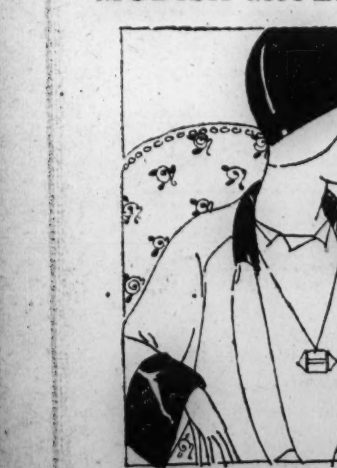

"They are braver than I, for I couldn't stay feeding a drill from day to day. Yet here they smile and they give their best. To a task which I feel they must all detest."

"They are men at work for the ones they love. They hammer and pound and haul and shove."

And if that's not bravery, tell me pray what finer courage can man display?"

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi has received a letter from one of her friends, asking if she can get a really smart costume for less than $100. Possible? Of course. And Mitzi will start to show a saving by recommending a three-piece ensemble that will make a very suitable traveling outfit.

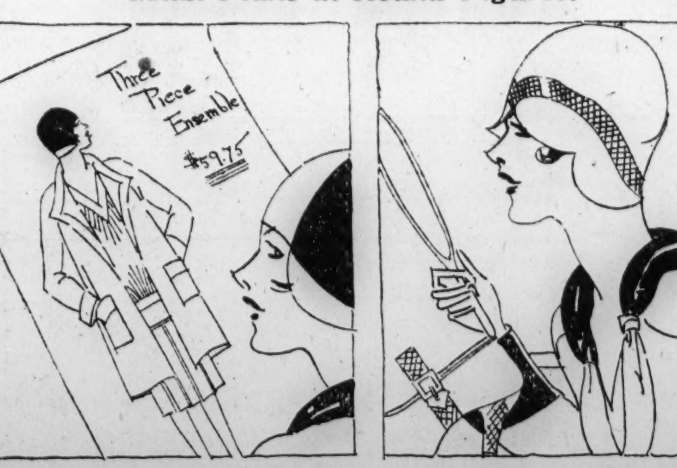

(All rights protected by the George Matthews Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered United States Patent Office.)

Mitzi Plans in Round Figures.

She saw this ensemble in the shops—you can find almost anywhere if you do some personal style inspection. The skirt and the coat are of the same material, the blouse is of a beige silk crepe, and matches the lining of the coat. The costume is well tailored and well made.

By Jay V. Jay

To wear with it, Mitzi suggests that a felt hat with a band of lizard grain leather would be smart. Slippers to match will complete this smart. Notice that the hat has a scalloped brim—the scallops arranged to give a one-sided effect. Of course, one could get a less expensive hat.

By Jay V. Jay

If the hat and shoes are trimmed with reptile skin, it is an easy matter to get a pocketbook trimmed with the same leather. But if the hat is to be of two-color felts like Mitzi's, then this flat pouch bag in harmonizing colors is suitable. You can get good leathers and smart styles at a reasonable price. Shop for yourself and see!

The Dog's Ears

By ROBERT S. LEMMON.

A GOOD many people who are somewhat inexperienced with dogs of breeds whose ears are supposed to stand up straight or "pricked" like the Scottish and Cairn Terriers, West Highlanders and Shepherds, are disappointed if the puppies they buy do not show this characteristic by the time they are three or four months old.

If such a pup comes from good, typical well bred stock there is not much cause to worry about his ultimate ear carriage. His ears may "come up" four months, or at eight or nine; there is no way of telling which. Furthermore, they may come up and then go down again before they assume their mature position. A dog's physical changes are rapid during infancy; but if he is typical of his breed his ear carriage will eventually be right in practically every instance.

Simple Frock

VOGUE 53208

CAPEs are not only used on afternoon coats, but are also a large item in the evening mode. The one we have sketched here is a typical new evening cape. It is of a beautiful shade of gray-green transparent velvet and is lined with chiffon of the same shade. The underpart of this cape has arm vents for convenience. The top part is made of a straight square of the material shirred at the neckline to ensure fullness and fit. It does not extend all round the back but is stitched to the under part in two vertical lines over each shoulder blade. The arms are covered by the cape to insure protection.

This cape would be equally smart in any shade. In planning an evening wrap, care should be taken to have it match or harmonize with the dress it is to accompany—for this season, the ensemble idea is stronger than ever, and all costumes from early morning until late at night should be so planned that all parts form a harmonious whole.

A correct evening ensemble for the gray-green, we have described, would include a soft green chiffon frock, sheer nude hose and green satin slippers.

As accessories we would suggest pearls, crystals or emeralds.

(Copyright, 1928.)

IT is the simple frocks that matter most in the life of a little girl, for in them she spends a greater part of her days—gay, happy days in which the hours of study and the hours of play are so delightfully proportioned that she forgets the former in pursuit of the latter! This charming small frock is fashioned on just the lines suited to a model in which service, chic and appropriateness are the expected trinity of virtues. It is of plain and printed batiste, the plan forming the turnover collar. The set-in sleeves may be long or short. Bloomers are included in the design, designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years.

CARDENAS LEADS FIRE ON RUNS AT JEFFERSON PARK

Fire On Runs Second in Feature

Blushing Maiden Pays
$38.80 After Easy
Victory in Sixth.

Tyson, H. Richards
Up, Wins Second by Nose Margin.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, March 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Cardenas, with V. Walls up, was an easy winner of the Camperdown Purse, a mile and a sixth, gallop and a half, offered on the card. He was a strong second choice in the betting, paying $7 for a $2 ticket. Fire On runs second and the favorite, Rejuvenation, third.

The start was delayed a few minutes by Dr. Cardenas refusing to line up, but when the start came he was away flying and Walls made every pole a winning one. Dr. Cardenas led by several lengths to the final furlong, where his rider began to ease him up, and he flashed over the wire a winner by a length and a half. Fire On easily defeated Rejuvenation for the place by two lengths.

Blushing Maiden, in E. P. Kries' colors, won the sixth race, a 6-furlong gallop. Dr. Fred was second and Wildcat third. The winner paid $38.80 for a $2 ticket. Wildcat broke running, but he could not handle his advantage, and Blushing Maiden took the lead and won by five lengths. Dr. Fred came along in the stretch and took the place by half a length from Wildcat. Gotham, the "good thing," was fourth.

M. K. Bryson's Original, with L. Morris up and favorite in the betting, was winner of the first race, which was a 4 1/2-furlong sprint for baby racers. Hiram Kelly was second and So Long third. The time was 1:55.3 and the winner paid $5.20. Volney made the pace to the final furlong pole, where he tired, and Original took the lead and won in a drive by a head. Hiram Kelly was second by a half length.

M. J. Berlin's Tyson, with the veteran jockey, H. Richards, in the saddle, won the second event by a nose from the "good thing," Charleetta, with Eminent third. Sparkling Water and Lord Valentine alternated in the lead in the stretch, but Tyson made the lead and won by a nose. Charleetta took the place by five lengths from Eminent.

Fourteen Sixty, paying $22, won the third race in a drive. Dearborn was second and Brass Band third. Dearborn received a very poorly-judged ride by Myer. The last race was a 1 1/2-mile race, won by a nose from Dearborn, who beat Brass Band a head for the place.

Mrs. George Read's My Boy Friend scored his second victory of the meeting when he led home a good field of sprinters in the fourth event, a 6-furlong sprint. Billy Culbertson was second and Herendene third. My Boy Friend drew away to win by three lengths.

With Richards up, won the last race, with Little Marie second and The Orleanian third.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

Let's start the ball rolling in the proper direction right off the reel down at Jefferson Park.

This juvenile has been dropped in with a very cheap lot. The right people arrived in Chicago today and started the work of scattering the commissions in order to protect the price. Everything is ready for the melon cutting in the opening spasm.

CONDE is far down on the also eligible list and may not get to start in the second. If he goes, however, he will step on the gas and wait home. BLUE DARTER is a stout contender, while SILENT LILLIAN seems good enough to hold the rest of her field safe.

BLACKAMOR has a shade of class and the distance is O. K. In the third race, if you let the wise boys in the paddock talk you out of playing this "bird," don't come around and blame your Uncle Betram.

GEORGE BROOM is well placed in the fourth, but this is the toughest race of the day. Let George do it or pass up the event entirely.

COLOR SERGEANT is the best sprinter shown at New Orleans. Although he would prefer a little longer route in the fifth he is capable of delivering the goods. FORCE ran second to good ones last time out and is likely to make his mark.

SETH and MOROCCO hustle in the sixth. For the closing dash get down on LEPANTO early in the morning. I know something.

Out at Tia Juana a big cup is on tap for LEADING LADY. She goes in the opener and the rest of the race. She is already home. Pretty good info. What?

Fire and fall back.

How Men Learned to Write

SOME Indian tribes had methods of writing before the white man came. Those of Mexico were the best writers, but many tribes north of the Rio Grande made records of one sort or another.

Another interesting piece of Indian writing was made on birch bark and was placed near the top of a split sapling. It recorded the visit to a spot in Minnesota of a band of sixteen men who explored the source of the Mississippi River in 1820.

The drawing bore rude sketches of the two Indian guides, the six officials, and the eight soldiers. Eight muskets were lined up to show the number of soldiers. The officials were shown with swords or other objects which they carried.

All of the white men were shown without hats. That was the favorite way of the Indian "writers" to record the difference in race of men pictured.

Three camps were included on the picture, so tell the fact that the party had camped there for three nights.

How Men Learned to Write

II. INDIAN PICTURE-WRITING.

SOME Indian tribes had methods of writing before the white men came. Those of Mexico were the best writers, but many tribes north of the Rio Grande made records of one sort or another.

Portion of Indian Picture-Writing Showing White Men and Guides.

An interesting example of Indian writing is the "Winter Count" kept by the Dakotas on a buffalo hide. This was started by the warrior called Lone Dog in the winter of 1800-1801. A picture was made to stand for an important event each year.

The first picture on the hide stood for "Thirty Dakotas killed by Crow Indians." Another picture stood for "First big winter," being a record of the first United States flag seen by the tribe.

For the winter of 1823-24, a sketch of the moon with stars and clouds was shown. It stood for the shaven of men who took place on November 12, 1823. Another picture showed a white man taking the hand of an Indian, and it recorded a treaty of peace. Still another sketch showed a black dog with two stars, and stood for the total eclipse of the sun on August 7, 1827, "when the stars came out."

Another interesting piece of Indian writing was made on birch bark and was placed near the top of a split sapling. It recorded the visit to a spot in Minnesota of a band of sixteen men who explored the source of the Mississippi River in 1820.

The drawing bore rude sketches of the two Indian guides, the six officials, and the eight soldiers. Eight muskets were lined up to show the number of soldiers. The officials were shown with swords or other objects which they carried.

All of the white men were drawn without hats. That was the favorite way of the Indian writers to record the difference in race of men pictured.

Three campfires were included on the picture, to tell the fact that the party had camped there for three nights.

INCREASE SHOWN IN NEW YORK CURB TRANSACTIONS

MONDAY, MARCH 19, 1934

NEW YORK CURB TRANSACTIONS

Federal Reserve Reports Gain of $1,180,000,000 in Demand Deposits.

LOCAL EXCHANGE ACTIVE

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Total loans and investments of all member banks showed a further increase of $1,180,000,000 during the first quarter of the year, according to the Federal Reserve Bulletin for December 31, and on that date amounted to $27,000,000,000. This represents an increase of about $2,700,000,000 over the corresponding figure for 1933, and is the largest increase in the history of the Federal Reserve Bulletin.

During the last quarter of the year the growth in member bank credit was rapid, which showed an increase of about $800,000,000 for the quarter. Growth in the volume of loans and investments, however, represented about equal increases in loans and in investments. The volume of loans and investments showed an increase of somewhat more than $1,000,000,000, or about 6 percent for the same period, as compared with the same period of 1933.

Growth in member bank loans and investments during the year was accompanied by a corresponding increase in demand deposits and of $1,325,000,000 in time deposits, making a total increase of $2,650,000,000 in the volume of deposits against which the banks are required to maintain reserve balances. Reflecting this growth, the member bank reserve balances at the close of 1933 showed an increase of about $300,000,000, or about 1 percent, as compared with the same period of 1932. The increase in the volume of their deposits in part to decline during the year, owing to the demand for currency and in part to open-market purchases by the Federal Reserve.

Comparison between condition figures for all member banks and for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York shows that the total increase in member bank credit during the year 1933, of $2,700,000,000, or about 10 percent, was more than one-half represented by an increase in the volume of loans and investments of member banks in smaller centers. At both classes of banks the total volume of credit outstanding represented an increase of about $1,000,000,000, or about 10 percent, as compared with the same period of 1932.

DIRIGIBLES FIT TO RIDE
STORMS, SAYS ECKENERExpert Declares Shenandoah Cracked Because It Drove at Half Speed.

BLAMES AIR VALVES, TOO

Leipzig, Germany, March 19 (A.P.).—The dirigible was extolled as safe, commercially inexpensive and fit to ride out storms by Dr. Hugo Eckener in an address before the Leipzig Aeronautical Society here last night. The audience included the consul of the United States, Spain and Argentina.

Dr. Eckener said there was room in aeronautics for both the plane and the dirigible, but he asserted that the dirigible had the advantage because the larger it was the better paying it became.

He criticized the tail mooring mast used in America and advocated shore masts costing about $5,000 each which would permit the bottom of the dirigible to rest on movable supports, something like the mast used by the United States Navy dirigible Los Angeles at Panama. With such equipment, he said, the dirigible could be used in southern Spain and Argentina would cost $50,000, including only $750 for landing and starting expenses.

If regular weekly flights were made the entire cost of the airship could be written off in two years, he said.

Horizontal storms were powerless against a dirigible and that the vertical air blasts were dangerous, he continued. These vertical blasts could be overcome, he said, by driving through them at full speed. He predicted that the Shenandoah disaster occurred because that dirigible flew into a severe storm at half speed. He said the reduction in the number of gas and air valves on the Shenandoah was a contributing factor, asserting that the outside air pressure of the blasts which forced the ship alternately up and down could not be adequately counterbalanced by valving out gas.

Dr. Eckener revealed that a new gas would be used in the forthcoming trials of the LZ-127. He said it would be a kind of volatilized benzene with specific gravity of 1.05. He predicted that this would permit static equilibrium to be maintained and would answer the question as to the handling of dirigibles in violent storms.

He also prophesied that as soon as tanking stations are established a dirigible could make a flight of 18,000 miles around the world in 280 hours flying time.

He explained that the project of placing the LZ-127 in regular service between Spain and Argentina had been postponed because the royal Spanish decree had made Spain's subsidies conditional upon similar guarantees by Argentina and that some kind of a hitch had arisen at Buenos Aires.

Inland Co. to Float
$30,000,000 Bonds

New York, March 19 (A.P.).—New financing aggregating $30,000,000 in first mortgage sinking fund 4 1/2 per cent gold bonds will be floated here tomorrow for the Inland Steel Co. A plan to consolidate the concern with the Chicago Sheet & Tube Co. recently was abandoned.

Proceeds of the loan, which was underwritten by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., will be used to retire $12,000,000 of 5 1/2 per cent bonds on May 1, and $10,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cent preferred stock on April 1. A similar saving in interest and sinking fund requirements will result. The 5 1/2 per cent bonds will be redeemed at 103 1/2, and interest will be accepted in payment for the new bonds on a 4 per cent basis. The new issue will be offered at 95 and interest to yield about 4.75 per cent.

UTILITIES TO HOLD SECRET SESSIONS ON MERGER PLANS

Abandons Publicity and Invites Transit Officials to Meetings Tomorrow.

FEW CHANGES INDICATED IN PRESENT PROPOSAL

Members to Attempt to Agree on Form for Presentation to Congress.

The Public Utilities Commission met yesterday to consider the pending street car merger agreement and reached no definite decision except to change its mode of procedure and abandon its program of daily meetings in favor of secret conferences with the officials of the transit lines.

In these conferences attempts will be made to agree on a form of merger that the commission can recommend to Congress. The present plan is to permit no publicity until an agreement has been reached between the traction companies and the commission.

Meeting Is Called.

John W. Childress, chairman of the commission, announced following yesterday's meeting that representatives of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., the Capital Traction Co. and Harley P. Wilson, representing the Washington Rapid Transit Co. majority ownership, were invited to confer with the commission tomorrow morning.

"We feel that any publicity until the conferences are over and until we have a plan that we can recommend to Congress, would be inadvisable," said Childress.

May Indorse Merger.

The decision of the commission yesterday indicated that it had at least made up its mind not to indorse the merger plan as it now stands, but on the other hand there was not as much indication as there was a few days ago that fundamental changes in the pending agreement would be required by the commission as a basis for its approval.

Ralph B. Pichart, people's counsel, will be present at the conferences with the company, but representatives of the Federation of Citizens' Associations will not be invited to attend.

Satisfactory Merger Plan Is Urged in Lincoln Park

Pointing out that benefits will be accrued by both the local transportation companies and the public, the Lincoln Park Citizens Association at a meeting last night adopted a resolution favoring any merger plan, which representatives of the traction companies and the public might agree upon. The resolution was introduced by W. C. Thom.

The association recorded itself in favor of the retention of the Eastern market at Seventh and C streets southeast and voted favorably upon a resolution empowering the president, Joseph Gammell, to appoint a special committee of five to work with other organizations interested in retaining the market.

A delegation of the market tenants attended the meeting and on their behalf, William E. Frader, thanked the members for their favorable action. Gammell reported that the two drives for funds for a new Casualty Hospital had resulted in raising $100,000 and plans for the new hospital building were being made. A. L. Harris, municipal architect, gave an illustrated lecture on the Federal building program, paying particular attention to the "municipal group" of buildings.

Ban on Utility Men In Federation Indorsed

Opposition to members of the Federation of Citizens' Associations accepting office with Public Utility Corporations was voiced in a resolution adopted by the West End Citizens Association at a meeting in the Concordia Lutheran Church. The resolution stated, however, that it is not opposed to James C. Yaden, president of the federation, continuing as a director of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., while he is in office because he accepted the position before there was any opposition to it.

Creation of a commission to regulate real estate operators was recommended in a resolution adopted by the association. The association urged that the M street bridge be constructed as originally planned. A committee to work for the retention of the Western Market was urged to continue and cooperate with a similar committee for the retention of the Eastern Market.

HUNGARIAN GROUP HEAVILY GUARDED; PICKETS ARRESTED

Police Take Three Banner Carriers as Kossuth Group Visits Coolidge.

MINISTER VOUCHES FOR EACH DELEGATE

Trip to Mt. Vernon and Arlington Cemetery on Schedule for Today.

Fearing that agitators may arouse feeling here against the Hungarian government, Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, Superintendent of Police, has surrounded the Hungarian Kossuth Commission with one of the strongest police guards ever called upon to protect a visiting foreign delegation.

With the White House surrounded by 50 Metropolitan police, 12 additional White House guards and a special detail of Park police, the commission called upon President Coolidge yesterday morning. Shortly after the delegation arrived a party of Hungarian pickets bearing placards criticising the Horthy government began to march down West Executive avenue.

Maj. Hesse, who was at the White House commanding the police guard, immediately ordered the pickets arrested. They were taken into custody by Park police and were charged at the Third Precinct with carrying banners and signs without a police permit. They gave their names as Hugo Gilbert, Emory Balint, Camilla L. Cinquegrana and Paul Decio, all of New York City. They deposited $10 collateral each and were released.

B. C. Marsh released. Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the Peoples Reconstruction League, who was with the picketers, was also taken into custody. He was held at the Third Precinct on a technical charge for a short time and was released.

The placards carried by the picketers, who said they were members of the anti-Horthy League of America, read: "Hejlas a mass murderer," "They Dis-honor Kossuth," "Pereniy a Hapsburg lackey," "They Jailed Hatvany," "Toms-cany reinstated the whipping post." The charges referred to members of the Hungarian delegation. It was explained.

Special precautions were taken at the White House as the delegation began to arrive. Theodore Brentano, Hungarian Minister, stood at the door of the White House executive office and personally identified members of the delegation who were to see the President. While only twenty members of the delegation were admitted to the President's room, the remainder of the delegation, approximately 300 men and women, stood quietly outside and plainly witnessed the arrest of the picketers.

The delegation arrived at the White House in automobiles. They were carefully scrutinized by White House police as they entered the grounds. Later they posed for a picture with President Coolidge.

Government Assailed. After the arrest of the picketers, Marsh, who has frequently been a witness before congressional committees, distributed a statement declaring that "most members of the delegation are guilty of supporting that government which gave a place in its Parliament to the mass murderer Hejlas, the bosom friend of Horthy, the only government in Europe which does not allow the practice of that most elementary form of human right, the secret ballot." The statement added that most members of the delegation were supporters of the Government in Hungary which discriminated against Jewish students in Hungarian universities.

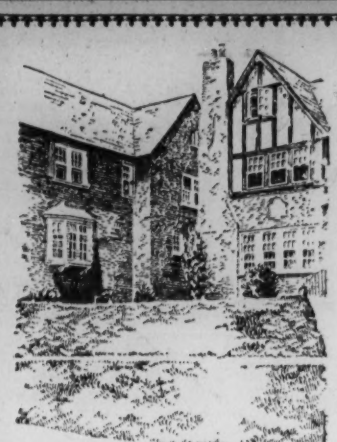

Marsh asserted that the pickets had come to him earlier in the day from New York to stage the demonstration without previously notifying him. Pickets have been ordered to appear in Police Court today to answer the charges against them.

Hotels Are Guarded. Special details of motorcycle policemen have been ordered to follow the delegation on its sightseeing trips around the city and plain-clothes men are stationed in the Cairo and Arlington hotels, headquarters of the delegation, at all hours of the night and day. Members of the delegation were but slightly interested in the arrest of the picketers. A spokesman for the delegation said: "We have been followed by communists wherever we go, but they do not worry us."

Today the committee will go to Arlington Cemetery and Mount Vernon where they will lay wreaths on the tombs of the Unknown Soldier and George Washington. The rest of the day they will visit other historic spots in and around Washington. Wednesday morning the delegation will leave for Pittsburgh.

After visiting several other cities the delegation will sail for Hungary, March 31. The delegation arrived in this country March 15 to attend the unveiling of a statue of Louis Kossuth, Hungarian hero and liberator, in New York City. Demonstrations against the delegation were staged in New York.

The city, the planes are scheduled to land at Hoover Field at 3 o'clock. A delegation of City Club members headed by Rudolph Jose, president, will escort Col. Chamberlin to the club in automobiles. A reception will precede the dinner, following which the flier will speak.

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

Foch's Front

By Ernest Henderson

WITH EVERYTHING IN READINESS, FOCH HAD RESOLVED, WITH ALL HIS AVAILABLE RESERVES, TO THURST INTO THE WEAK ENEMY FLANK BETWEEN SOISSONS AND CHATEAU THIERRY. IT OFFERED A PERFECT MARK FOR HIS ATTACK. VON BOEHN WAS FIGHTING WITH HIS HEAD TURNED THE WRONG WAY.

IN CASE OF A FLANK ATTACK, VON BOEHN MUST MAKE HASTY AND DIFFICULT ADJUSTMENTS. BESIDES THE GERMAN COMMUNICATIONS WERE PARALLEL TO THE FRONT.

THE GREAT ROAD FROM SOISSONS BY WAY OF FERRE EN TARDENOIS TO RHEIMS, WITH ITS BRANCHES RUNNING SOUTH TO THE MARNE, WAS THE MAIN FEEDER OF THE WHOLE GERMAN LINE IN THE SALIENT.

MOREOVER, ALL THE RAILWAY COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN THE SALIENT AND THE NORTH DEPENDED ON THE JUNCTION AT SOISSONS. IF THAT WERE TAKEN, THE MARNE FRONT WOULD SUDDENLY FIND ITSELF SOME 30 MILES FROM A RAILHEAD.

ALSO, AT THE MOMENT, BETWEEN SOISSONS AND CHATEAU THIERRY, VON BOEHN HAD ONLY EIGHT DIVISIONS IN LINE AND SIX IN SUPPORT. INSIDE THE SALIENT HOWEVER, HE HAD LARGE RESERVES AND A NEW NINTH ARMY WAS FORMING TO THE REAR.
